Fifty Years Since Confederation, and Now What?

Canada in a half century has progressed marvelously in industry, commerce, culture. But the testing time is now.
Momentous questions are before us. Will we be true to ourselves in the days to come? Will our public men falter in the face of opposition to conscription?

Will we, in the years to come, be TRUE, not only to ourselves, but to our church and our God in the pursuit of the higher things of life?

The pastor will take these questions up at the evening service.

On June 17 Mr. and Mrs. E. Atherton Smith were guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Alexander Hendry in Vancouver, after having been in California and in several

TRIBUTE TO Y.M.C.A.

To the Editor of The Times:
Sir,—I would like you to let the people of St. John know what the Y. M.
C. A. is doing for the Canadian troops in England, and also in France.
I am now in Shorncliffe Camp. All around the camp are small and large towns, every town has its Y.M.C.A. tent.

Taking, as an example, in Sangethe Y.M.C.A. have concerts and movies for the boys every night, free also writing paper, pen and ink. After the show is over, there is a short service for those who care to stay.

We cannot say too much about the way those in charge try to make things pleasant for us. The captain in charge here is a fine man, and I think that the Y.M.C.A. deserves the help of every true Canadian.

Dear Ships

Enormous prices, says a writer in the Yorkshire Post, are still being paid for ships. A British company, for instance, bought at San Francisco recently a steamer in course of construction for £42,000, a sum more than double the contract price of the vessel.

I also hear of a small bark that was saved from wreck, some two years ago, and brought into Monte Video. The damage done was so great that no offer to buy the ship at the time was received, but a few weeks ago she changed hands at £17,000 and in addition the buyers will make good the damage. It is also understood that several Norwegian firms that had steamers building in the United States have sold them at a profit of nearly three millions sterling.

In spite of all German threats and efforts, the newspaper La Libre Belgique continues to make its appearance in Brussels with a regularity which is truly extraordinary. The 118th issue of the paper has just been received in Paris, notwithstanding the fact that the German authorities in Belgium were under the impression that all the writers and distributors of the paper had been deported and imprisoned in Germany.
