MORNING LETTER.

NEW YORK, May 22—The character of the buying in yesterday's sharp raily led to the belief that the interacts which have been behind the upward move of prices had resumed their manipulative tactics and the recent reaction was a part of the general plan. The decision of the steel interests not to reduce prices will not be unanimacuely received as a favorable factor. Otherwise there is a dearth of news important enough to seriously affect prices either way. The decisive manner in which prices railied yesterday has encouraged the belief that the interests in charge will attempt to place the market upon a new high level and while this will not be acceptable without this will not be acceptable without resistance the buil forces still appear to have control.

NEW YORK, May 22—The steel gang ended as generally thought it would in maintenance of prices. The campaign managers have encouraged short interests and were fairly successful in their efforts. There is a good plentitude of these contracts and little aggressiveness is expected at opening. The better outlook for an outlet to the seaboard for Wabash is mainly the reason for advance in these securities. Union Pacific will no doubt be conspicuous today as well as other Harriman stocks. Wabash's are still in good demand, note issues of both Wabash and Wheeling advanced in last few days.
