FISHERMEN AND DEALERS
BEFORE THE COMMISSION
Dominion Government Shell Fish Commission Met in Mayor's Office Yesterday Morning-- Witnesses Ask for Reduction in Size Limit of Lobsters—Should be Standard Fixed for Oysters

The Dominion government Shell Fish Commission, besides the views of several of the leading St. John city and county fish dealers on the conditions of the industry at an open enquiry held in the Mayor's office yesterday morning, Prof. E. E. Prince presided, and was assisted in questioning the witnesses by Hon. J. W.
McLean, the only other member of the commission present. The absent members were Richard O'Leary, of Rich-buck, and S. G. Wilson, of Halifax.
Before entering into the enquiry, Prof. Prince explained the object of the commission, saying that visits were being made to all fishery districts in the Maritime Provinces with a view of obtaining first hand information in regard to the conditions of the industry, and find out the opinions of the fishermen on the laws and regulations governing these fisheries.
An interesting speaker at the enquiry was John A. Matheson, provincial fishery inspector for P. E. I.
The commissioners left at noon yesterday for P. E. Island, where today they will hold a session at Summerside.

Fish Improperly Marked.
John Cochrane, fishery inspector, said his duties were to inspect shipments of fish going from St. John to the United States, for the purpose of detecting illegalities. Most of the lobsters were shipped through in cans.
The only illegality he noticed in this regard was that the cans were not marked with the official stamps, which were to show that they must have been shipped out of season.
Chairman Prince—Did you anything to do with oysters?
Witness—Yes, I remember discovering barrels of potatoes that turned out to be barrels of oysters.
Continuing witness said that there were few infringements of this kind now. "I killed the goose," he said.
Witness said that one time he discovered a car load of oysters in a barrel in a standard barrel. The barrels were marked with the official stamp. On opening the boxes he found they contained nice trout weighing three-quarters of a pound. Witness could not say whether there were any lobsters sold illegally in the city.

The Lobster Industry.
James Patterson was the next witness. He said he was one of the oldest fish dealers in St. John. He said that the live lobsters came principally from St. John and Charlotte counties. If lobsters are packed in a barrel he considered they would keep alive for three or four days. When lobsters are not well packed they become sleepy and dead. A lobster cooked after death was suitable for eating, but was not as good as if cooked alive.
Prince—I suppose you know that fresh water is bad for lobsters?
Witness—Yes, that is the reason why lobsters will not live for 24 hours in our harbor. Large lobsters are in demand on the local market.
The regulation size of lobsters caught in St. John and Charlotte counties was 10 1/2 inches, whereas 9 inches was the regulation length for Nova Scotia. The law permitting lobsters legally caught in the open season to be sold in the close season was not tested to any extent here. Live dealers handled Grand Manan lobsters but did not notice any difference in them from other lobsters.
Prof. Prince—"Our attention has been called to the fact that lobsters under regulation length have been caught in certain waters and shipped contrary to law."
Witness—"I know of no infringements."

Prof. Prince—"The feeling of the commission is that to peg a lobster is a cruel treatment. They also considered that when lobsters are under torture they are not so good for eating." Witness—"When lobsters are pegged for but a short time I do not consider that it would do any harm." Prof. Prince—"When lobsters are pegged they lose a certain amount of blood and I should think from this standpoint they would not be so delicious for eating."

Discrimination Alleged.
Com. McLean—"Have you ever heard of any complaints made by New Brunswick fishermen about only being allowed to catch a 10 1/2 inch lobster, while in Nova Scotia the fishermen are allowed to catch a nine inch lobster?" Witness—"Yes, the discrimination is recognized as unfair. The New Brunswick fishermen consider that the law should be uniform." As a dealer, witness said he would prefer to see the law made uniform rather than uniform rather than have the Nova Scotia law resorted to. He considered that the shell fishery law as it stands now was working very satisfactorily.

Oysters More Expensive.
J. A. Turner, of Charlotte street, testified that he had not noticed any difference in the size of the lobsters since the 10 1/2 inch law size came into effect. The American oysters are all uniform in size. He complained of the fact that there were too many oysters among the Canadian barrel.

Oysters are scarcer now than years ago, and he considered that there could be a barrel of oysters for $1.50, whereas today the same amount cost between $1.80 and $2.00 a barrel.
The P. E. I. were in his estimation, the best oysters. Between three and four inches was a good size oyster.
In the month of October they are in their prime. There is no place now for laying oysters, but about five years ago the dealers stored them at a place near Red Head.

Mr. Hetherington ventured the remark that the summer of the cholera he saw oysters lying off Navy Island.
C. H. Jackson said that those oysters had been placed there.
Continuing, Mr. Turner said that the price paid for claims was $1.35 a barrel. There was no market here for quakers. Witness said that there were more seed oysters found here than large ones. There was more profit on American oysters than on Canadian. The standard size of a barrel used in P. E. I. would not hold two bushels. There was no standard barrel.
Com. McLean—"You are in favor of a standard barrel?" Witness—"Yes, and a standard oyster, too." A standard barrel, he said, should hold two and a half bushels.
He noticed the prevalence of seed oysters, and complained about their catch. He said it was only possible to get oysters during the month of October. American oysters cost $6 per barrel in Boston, and there was 25 per cent. duty on them. There was more in a barrel of American oysters than in a barrel of Canadian oysters.
Witness said about three years ago American oysters were planted in P.
E. I. was a standard barrel. He said that the oysters were turned out all right.
Fishery Inspector Calder remarked that within the last seven or eight years there were scarcely any N. B. clams dug for bait.

Want Uniform Law.
B. B. Brittain, the local inspector, said that the fishermen here were anxious for a uniform law governing the catch of lobsters in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The New Brunswick law was considered as the better.
Mr. Tyner, of Musquash, a lobster fisher, said that the lobster fishermen would like to have the open season extended from November 1 to July.
Seed lobsters were plentiful in June.
About this month lobsters were very plentiful in the open season and covered a large part of the market. He had seen lobsters nine and a half inches in length bearing young.
About twelve or thirteen inches he considered was an average size for lobsters. In the vicinity of Musquash the fishermen set between 80 and 90 traps to a man.

The Size of Lobsters.
Joseph Stanley, a lobster fisherman, from Musquash, was next examined.
He said New Brunswick fishermen considered that it was not fair to allow fishermen in Nova Scotia to catch a nine-inch lobster and to limit the N.
B. fishermen to 11 1/2 inches.
During the month of February and March fishermen considered lobster fishing should be prohibited. He considered 4,000 lobsters would be a fair catch for a season. He would like to see the lobster season open about the first of October and extend to July, with February and March being cut out.

J. E. Smith, fish dealer, said that he imported live lobsters from Westport, N. S., Halifax, N. S., Grand Man-an and Musquash. The lobsters imported from Nova Scotia were rather small. He preferred the 10 1/2 inch lobsters. He sold more small lobsters than large ones. He considered that if there was a uniform 10 1/2 inch law for the catch of lobsters in course of time the size of lobsters would make no difference with the price. Last year the dealers paid the fishermen about 9 cents for 9 1/2 inch lobsters, while for the larger lobsters prices

Y. M. C. A. BOYS
FAVOR JUVENILE COURT
Will Co-operate with Other Organizations Working for Boys to Solve Problem of Juvenile Delinquency.

An important matter was brought up at the conference of the older boys of the Y. M. C. A. last evening when B. Eldon Merritt speaking on the subject of the Street Boy and how the Association can help him, urged the necessity of the establishment of a juvenile court in order to satisfactorily cope with the problem of dealing with juvenile delinquents. Mr. Merritt favored a boys' court along the lines of that which Judge Lindsay, of Denver, has made famous.
The members of the conference declared to get in touch with other organizations in the city engaged in work on behalf of the boys, and to co-operate with them in their efforts to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency. B. D. Milligan read an interesting paper on the Group System and its relation to Bible Study, and as a result of his exposition, the value of the system it was resolved to adopt it in connection with the Bible classes for boys conducted by the association.
This evening a banquet will be tendered to all the delegates, and H.
A. Lordy, of Montreal, will read a paper on Modern Camp Methods, and B. D. Milligan will speak on the Best Methods of Doing Personal Work Among Boys.

ton and is expected home on Saturday which he will give a welcome song.

The young ladies will also make a presentation.

New Settlers Doing Well.
A. B. Wilnot, Dominion immigration agent for the St. John district, arrived in the city yesterday. He has been on a visit to St. John, where he has been looking up the new settlers who have located in that district. He said he found them doing well and very much pleased with their prospects in this country. He met with quite a number of newcomers there who were anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity presented by the creation of the farm settlement board of acquiring a farm of their own. Mr.
Wilnot will go to the St. John river as far as Grand Falls with Mr. Phillips, the man who is taking moving pictures of the province, next week.
