When Mandy's Mad.

She has a disposition sweet,
She labors like a Turk,
She keeps all things a-lookin' neat,
An' ain't afraid t' work;
But somethin' happens now an' then
That riles her t' the core,
An' one can allers tell it when
My Mandy slams the door.

She'll bustle round about the MA-hummin' some old sone;
As meek an' quiet as a mouse,
When, presto, somethin's wrong
I've learned it doesn't do to talkTalk won't her peace restore—
An' so I simply walk the chalk
When Mandy slams the door.

When Mandy stams the door!

But then I never blame my wife,
I've noticed that her sex
Have saddled on them, all through life,
The little things that vex.
An' I've seen Mandy take things good
At which I'd up an' swore,
But put me down as "sawin' wood"
When Mandy slams the door!
