

Ralph Connor's W O R K S

---

The Prospector

A Tale of Crow's Nest Pass.

12mo. cloth, $1.50

N. Y. Evening Post: "The huge clientele which Ralph Connor's former novels have attracted will not be disappointed, for it has all of the 'heart interest' of the preceding, and the plot is better developed. There is action, too, and the characters are 'caught on the move.' The temptation to compare Ralph Connor with Owen Wister is strong. They both get hold of their types in a natural, convincing way, and both have the knack of turning incidents into dramatic little short stories."

Chicago Tribune: "It far surpasses its predecessor. . . . A novel so tense that one grinds his teeth, less the sinews should snap, ere the strain is released."

Boston Times: "It is certainly one of the strongest novels of the year. In every way it is a masterpiece, where goodness bleads with humor, and simplicity with courage."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "There is more plot and action than in any of his previous books. Practice has improved his skill without impairing the freshness of his style. Will find an immediate and tremendously extended reading."

San Francisco Chronicle: "The book is written with all the fire and enthusiasm that made 'Black Rock' noteworthy, and it is sure to have many readers, who will be strongly moved by its passionate appeals to all that is best in human nature."

Minneapolis: "The Prospector" is a real story, exciting, entertaining, clean, convincing—it beguiles without cheating the emotions."

125th 1000

---

Gwen

The Famous Canyon Idyll from
"The Sky Pilot."

Each page decorated in colors, Frontispiece artistically bound in New Scenic Photo Style. Boards net, 75cts.

Newark Advertiser: "One of the most beautifully written little stories in American literature. Ralph Connor portrays life, warmth and color, with brilliant, vivid and pathetic word pictures that show literary skill of the highest order. Pathos, fascinating pathos, is the keynote of the story, which fascinates by its realism. The little volume is superbly bound and makes a little book of unusual beauty and value."

12th 1000