Old Country Notes

Plenty of work is to be found in England just now for those who are willing. "Any man who can crawl can get work to-day." That is the opinion of the master of a large London workhouse. "Why," he said, "an old man of 67 who has been an inmate of this house for some time went out the other day and is now getting 11d. per hour at his old trade as a carpenter. It is all due to the war." When account is taken of employment by the War Office and Admiralty it would appear that the number of persons who have found employment in industrial occupations who were not so occupied before the war is about 250,000 says the Board of Trade. The railway companies show a reduction in their regular employees of 9.5 per cent, while 10.6 per cent. have joined the forces. As regards road transport, 21 per cent. of the men in omnibus and tramway services in London have joined the forces. The proportion of enlistment in the case of banks and insurance companies is between 20 and 25 per cent. and in the case of other commercial employees about 20 per cent. In some of the most prosperous trades the percentage enlistment is very high. The report estimates that farmers in England and Wales have been able to fill the places of one in five of those employees who have joined the forces.

Important Regulations have been issued by the Foreign Office with regard to passports held by passengers travelling to France. It appears that some confusion arose out of the form of passport issued soon after the war began, and the authorities have now reverted practically to the previous regulations. British subjects journeying to France must hold either the new form of passport issued February 1, 1915, or a passport in the old form issued between August 5, 1914, and January 31, 1915, but the holders of the old form of passport must obtain a supplementary document from a French Diplomatic or Consular office in the United Kingdom. The supplementary document will serve for more than one journey, subject to it being issued by a French Diplomatic or Consular officer in the United Kingdom. A visa will be valid only for three days, and will show the French port at which the holder is authorized to land. No passenger will be allowed to embark in the United Kingdom for France who is not in possession of the above document.

"Prince"—a black dog well-known as Twickenham as a collector of over $1,500 for the railwaymen's orphanage, the National War Relief Fund, and local hospitals—has died through grief at the absence of his owner, Railway-Inspector Isaacs, who for two months past has been on transport duty on Salisbury Plain. The dog began to pine as soon as the inspector left home for Salisbury, and appeared to sob like a child. Its howls were distressing, and the only times the dog would eat were when Mr. Isaacs came home for the weekends. Just before the dog died it went up into the bedroom and sniffed at the side of the bed where Mr. Isaacs usually slept, and, coming down stood by the side of his chair and died while howling piteously. A veterinary surgeon could account for the animal's death only on the theory of "a broken heart."

A surprise visit to the soldiers and sailors' refreshment buffet at Victoria Station was paid by the Queen and Princess Mary a few days ago. A number of soldiers were standing at the counter, and when it became known that the Queen and Princess Mary were about to enter the buffet a corporal gave the order, and the men smartly came to "Attention" and gave the salute. Among the soldiers were a number of Belgians. Her Majesty conversed with the soldiers and expressed great interest in their welfare and comfort. A Belgian to whom the Queen spoke in French informed her Majesty that he had recently come from the front, where he had seen the Prince of Wales. This information greatly pleased the Queen, who inquired as to how the Prince looked.

The Postmaster-General, describing in a speech at Bristol the work of the Post Office in connection with the war, said that within four hours of the outbreak of hostilities they had severed every German cable which ran from Germany westwards or eastwards under the sea. No fewer than 32,000 men had been sent from the Post Office to the colours and they had lost, he was sorry to say, many a brave man. Every day took out to the front over 400,000 letters and over 50,000 parcels—over 80 tons of mail matter. And they got back from the front something like 200,000 postal packets every day. He could undertake, as Postmaster-General, to deliver in the trenches on the evening of the day of publication of the London morning papers.

Royal Congratulations were recently received by Mr. James Cuthbertson, Moffat, who has five sons, one stepson, one brother-in-law, and six nephews serving with the colours. The letter came from the Keeper of the Privy Purse, Buckingham Palace. "The King," the letter stated, "was much gratified to hear of the manner in which they have so readily responded to the call of their Sovereign and their country, and I am to express to you and to them His Majesty's congratulations in having contributed in so full a measure to the great cause for which all the people of the British Empire are so bravely fighting."

The Bronzes presented last autumn to the Victoria and Albert Museum by Monsieur Auguste Rodin will be lent to the Royal Scottish Academy, of which Monsieur Rodin is an honorary member, for inclusion in their annual exhibition in Edinburgh this Summer. The bronzes will be withdrawn from exhibition in London at the close of this month. It is proposed that an exhibition of the work of the Serbian sculptor, Ivan Meschirovitch, should be held in the Victoria and Albert Museum during the summer by arrangement with the Serbian Government.

Women conductors are to be tried on the Glasgow tramway car system. Neat blue skirts and tunics edged with gold braid, and smart caps have been served out to two women. Upon their efficiency depends the future of the women conductors in Glasgow. For four hours the women tramway car conductors will punch tickets between the university and Dumbreck, and the manager will report to the Tramways Committee. The wages paid to men conductors are 25s. to 36s a week, and the women's wages will not be lower.

An historic relic, of great interest to Scotsmen, will be included in the sale to be opened shortly in aid of the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John. Lady Jekyll, the wife of the Chancellor of the Order, has sent an emerald and gold seal which belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, and bears her arms. It was purchased in Edinburgh by Lady Jekyll's father, the late Mr. William Graham, M.P.

A cock fight recently took place in Dunfermline, and fifteen of the promoters and supporters were fined. For the accused it was pleaded that the sport was a very ancient one. Caesar and Mark Antony had engaged in the excitement of cock-fighting and Henry VIII. was so taken up with it that he built a palatial cockpit so that he and his courtiers could witness their favourites doing battle.

An interesting rumor is current to the effect that Mr. Birrell may be the new Principal of the University of St. Andrews. The rumor seems to come from Dundee where there is a university college which is affiliated to St. Andrews.

A daring robbery, which occurred a few miles from Ballina on Wednesday night of last week, when Mr. Thos. Igoe, rate collector, was attacked by three men and robbed of a sum of $2,140, is being investigated by the police. It appears that Mr. Igoe intended to lodge the money in the National Bank, but unfortunately, did not reach town until shortly after three o'clock, when the bank closed. He started for home about nine o'clock and at Shanaghy three men jumped out before him on the road. One of them armed with a gun, wrenched the lamp off the car, and demanded "Your life or your money," while the other two held the horse's head. Mr. Igoe asked if they were joking, and the man with the gun replied: "I will soon let you know what I mean." They cut the traces and gave the mare a kick, and she went off at a gallop, with the result that the car heeled up, throwing Mr. Igoe on the road. A scuffle ensued, Mr. Igoe hitting out, and receiving a few blows. The men took four shillings—all the money he had in his pockets. One of the men said he had more money than that and began to search the car. Mr. Igoe implored them not to do so, saying there was nothing there but the property of the county council. They took his collecting books and the bag containing $2,140, and disappeared in the darkness. As the third man went away he remarked: "The County Council took this money from the poor and the war is going on, but they'll do no more on it this year."

A remarkable voyage ended the other Saturday by the arrival at Queenstown of the ketch Aurora, of Bridgewater, with a cargo of coal for Whitegate. The ketch belongs to Captain Norman, whose wife is on board with him, and the two of them constitute the crew of the little craft. They navigated her from port to port. The present voyage was commenced as far back as November last, and when she sailed into port saw the completion of the 12th day from the day of sailing. Of course the little vessel has not been all that time in the Channel, as it became necessary owing to the terrible nature of the weather experienced and adverse winds, to put into fully half a dozen ports of refuge. While crossing St. Georges Channel the Aurora had a narrow escape from foundering, and Captain Norman and his wife had to remain on deck day and night until a haven of safety was found on the Wexford coast. Mrs. Norman is almost as skillful a navigator as her husband, and frequently has had sole charge of the ketch at sea while Capt. Norman was having a few hours' sleep.

A strange case was tried a short time ago at a special court in Bray, when Mr. Samuel Allister McLean, Oban, Scotland, was charged in custody with "unlawful stealing and carrying away" a valuable security belonging to the Northern Bank at Bray. In giving evidence the bank manager said: "The defendant came into the bank and asked me if he could see a paper he had signed. I produced the document that the accused had signed, retaining my hold on it. The accused seized it excepting that portion of it I held in my hand, and tore it away from me. He then made for the door of the bank. I followed him and pulled him back. He put the document in his mouth, chew it up, and I have never seen it since. I have the fragment which was left in my hand."

MILK TEST RESULTS

Twenty-eight samples of milk have recently been tested by the Medical Officer of Health, and they have proved that the milk is not, in general, up to the regular standard. Milk to pass the test should have a specific gravity of 10.29 and a 3.50 per cent. of butter fat. The samples taken, with the results, were as follows:
