

before me on this day, and to answer the allegations of the Plaintiff's Bill; and that the Defendant was indebted to the Plaintiff in the sum of £. together with £. costs of obtaining this Judgment.

And the Provost Marshal, is hereby commanded to attach the Defendant's Goods and Chattels, and thereof to dispose according to Law; and thereout to satisfy and pay the Plaintiff, or his assigns, his said debt, and costs; and in case the said Defendant hath no Goods and Chattels within his precinct to satisfy the Plaintiff's debt and costs, then the said Provost Marshal is hereby commanded to attach the Defendant's body, and him to keep in safe Custody, until he shall pay the Plaintiff his said debt and costs, or be otherways lawfully discharged. And the said Provost Marshal is hereby further commanded, to certify and make due return to the said A. B. Esquire, of what he shall do in the Execution of this Writ, within fourteen days next after the Test hereof.

Given under my hand and Seal, at the day of 17 and in the Year of the Reign of King
George the Third.

XII. And be it further enacted, That if the party against whose Goods and Chattels, or against whose body, any such Writ of Execution shall be awarded as aforesaid, shall, by secreting or removing his, her, or their goods, or by absconding, or by any other means prevent or evade the service or effect of any such Writ of Execution it shall and may then be lawful for the Justice who shall have awarded and issued such Writ of Execution, upon such matter being returned thereon, and upon proof made to him by the Oath of one or more credible Witness or Witnesses, that the whole, or a certain part of the said Judgment still remains due and unsatisfied, to award and issue an alias Execution for the sum so proved to be due with additional costs; and in the like case, and on such proof made, to issue other and further Executions, until the whole of the said Judgment shall have been satisfied.

XIII. And be it further enacted, That if the Provost Marshal, or any other Officer by him appointed to execute any of the said Writs of Execution, shall, by wilful and notorious Neglect, or by connivance, cause or suffer the Goods and Chattels of such party to be carried away, or secreted, or suffer the party against whom such Writ of Execution shall be awarded and issued, to escape or abscond, so that, in either of such cases the said Writ of Executions shall not have its due effect; then it shall and may be lawful for the said Justice who may have awarded and issued such Writ of Execution, upon complaint made, and due proof thereof, upon the Oath of one or more credible Witness or Witnesses, to order the party, so offending, to pay the sum or sums of money, and costs, for which the said Writ of Execution was awarded and issued, to the party complaining; and

If Writ of Execution be prevented or evaded,

Justice may issue another.

Provost Marshal, or other Person, guilty of notorious misbehaviour,

Justice may enquire into the same, and award satisfaction to the Party injured.
