Yea democracy!

Dear Editor:

of democracy, as the first phase in 'Nut to NUS' Murray speaks out the process of democracy - let it against union — give it another be decided by the voice of chance: Muriithi's view — it is up majority by Sheenagh Murphy. to you, by Sheenagh Murphy. Very Without trying to influence interesting!! (I should add). anybody, I am looking forward anybody, I am looking forward

I am positive that all of us who with anticipation to the day of have read the last issue of the reckoning. The verdict that will Brunswickan have come across further potray our scope or these three interesting and very iramework of thinking (I am not important sub-topics. going to comment anything), Interesting because it portrayed except that incidentally I rememthree important symbols — ber a saying which was somewhat Murray's as a responsible father like this "some people only belong whose welfare of his children to himself, some just to his family, must come first (I am sure that he some to his society and nations, must be a firm believer in the some etc. etc. . . ., but there are proverb 'charity begins at home'); those who belongs to the world', Muriithi's as a matured and yet, if I am allowed to add, politician, with the voice of each has his legitimate place in Moderation (matured in a way society. So let us all decide where that he is able to recognise the we should stand, and use one of existance of intangible values — our legitimate right in democratic because not many politicians society.

could recognise intangible values, Abdul Rahman, but they recognised invisible Faculty of Forestry, values) — Lastly, and most Dept. Of Forest Engineering significant of all, we see the voice 26th of September 1977.

UNB staff underpaid

Dear Editor:

'unnecessary priviledge' of half- controls are lifted that this will tuition for spouses and children come into effect. (Which may be are reasonable, if it were not for now or never). other factors involved.

Staff members, especially facul- We also have numerous other ty, are very underpaid compared benefits such as life insurance, with other univs. in Canada. An health insurance, vacation, sabbaintelligent science professor/ tical, etc. which is costing the researcher does not really care if university more money (in my he is among the highest paid opinion, have not checked the residents in Fredericton (it is figures) than the half-tuition rather a small town) when benefit for spouses and children. compared with other academic So I really would not make the men in Canada. And if you take a 'unnecessary priviledge' a crucial closer look at the UNB faculty, you concern in the economic reports will realize that many of the 'best' on UNB. are leaving.

Staff members who are not Re: Last week's article - Cutbacks faculty do not obtain half-tuition in effect - so what about others? for their spouses as yet (they As a staff member of UNB, never have) - but only for their think your thoughts on our children. It is only when the AIB You were misinformed about his.

Very sincerely yours, As regards page 6 of the Harrison 113

Brunswickan (Fri. Sept. 16), I am frankly disappointed. I had EDITOR'S NOTE: Perhaps an produced a drawing which I felt apology is in order but an was fairly amusing in it's original explanation as to the reason for form (at McConnell, we do it all for the alteration is also necessary. you); so when a member of your After we received the graphic, it staff approached me with the idea was felt that the caption was being cynical. To go along with the of putting it in the Bruns, I thrust of the editorial which it On Friday, however, I found I accompanied, it was decided to had unwittingly played into the change the caption to "We do it all hands of a very cynical somebody to you" since we felt that this was who not only changed the content closer to the theme. What was and meaning of my drawing, but being exercised was editorial wrote a very cutting article on the discretion and it is unfortunate "evils" of Saga Foods - and left my that the artist was not around signature as the only one on the time of the alteration. T.B. that the artist was not around at page! Perhaps "Mr. X" cannot conceive of anybody having a Misquoted Mullin

many people would probably agree with the opinions expressed Dear Editor: in that article. I, for one, do not.

Nor do I find it fair or amusing that Since THE BRUNSWICKAN, or its my work could be so drastically reporting staff, has seen fit to misquote me yet again, please be me. It would have been a kindness advised that I will, in future, give to have simply removed my no verbal interviews to THE signature from the drawing. I feel BRUNSWICKAN. an apology is in order, as well as
