

tell you all that I will go on too long.

This is a miserable letter I know but we all feel well upset and besides I have not written for so long that I want to tell you for now than you have time to read.
We are so glad from your letter. What a hard time you must have had with it. We have had no word from Mrs. Skidgate yet. Mrs.
Fair has a little son; born on the 29th. Mother and I have just come to the conclusion that we wish we had not eaten cold roast beef for tea. Will try to write you again some time.

We Mrs. Willison, for Tom night, but I don't know whether that will ever materialize.

Just at this picture Mrs.
Norman's. Mr. Norman called to ask me to go down with him, to see the returns.
Did you ever know such news?
Some of these children are a very great nuisance and Norman is certainly most preventing.
Mother and I had were at a very nice little tea on Saturday at Mrs. Ackland's.
This is the first tea Mother has been at for nearly two years.
