

August 7, 1931.

My dear May:

I was indeed sorry to have to wire you as I did a week ago.

It is fortunate, however, that I did so, as Saturday and Monday were particularly difficult days, and I had not a moment to myself on Sunday in going over matters which required attention at the last hours of the session.

I do hope that some other chance will present itself for you and the boys to come down, if it is but for a day before you leave for home. I am keeping free of all engagements, excepting the week from Wednesday the 18th to Wednesday the 25th, in which time I shall endeavour to attend what appointments may be necessary for the remainder of this month, and I will keep the other time free of other
