

the surest indication of the loyalty and devotedness of the Dominion to Great Britain.

To Lt.-Col. Gzowski, the President, are due the thanks not only of the Association, but also of the whole Dominion, for the manner in which he has, for two successive years, brought our marksmen so prominently before the British people; and to his untiring efforts is the success of the Team largely attributable. I only trust that he may again be induced to accept the position of head of our organization, that his efforts to foster the good feeling between our riflemen and those of the mother country, and in bringing our land and its resources so prominently before the British public may not be lost.

You will notice by my accounts that I allowed the Team one shilling per man more whilst in camp than formerly; this I found to be necessary for their comfort.

I would recommend for the future guidance of the officer in command, that an extra marquee be provided as a mess tent, in which the whole Team might be accommodated. By this arrangement the members of the Team would be better provided with rations and at a less expense.

To Major Cotton, the second officer in command, I am much indebted for his attention to the details. From his previous knowledge of the working of all the competitions he was an invaluable assistant.

I must congratulate the Association on the selection of the Team; the steadiness, good behaviour and general deportment of the men was all that could be desired. My orders were cheerfully obeyed and each member of the Team is entitled to my warmest thanks for his ready obedience and assistance in carrying out my wishes.

Whilst in camp at Wimbledon, the officer in charge of the London Irish, (Capt. Tully,) kindly invited the officers and members of the Canadian Team to make use of their tents, which invitation was gladly accepted; and to Capt. Tully I feel much indebted for his kindness and attention during our stay.

To the Civil Service corps I am also largely indebted, they having placed at our disposal a mess tent which was used by the Team during the meeting.

I cannot conclude this report without returning thanks to the Mayor of Liverpool, the officers of the several regiments there, and Mr. Heigh, Canadian Emigration Agent, for their great kindness and attention to us whilst quartered at Altcar, as everything on the range was placed at our disposal, and nearly all the ammunition used at practice was fur-
