...The Canadian Bee Journal

PUBLISHED MONTHLY.

EW	SEI	RIES
OL.	IX.	No.	10

BRANTFORD, ONT., APRIL, 1902.

WHOLE NO. 446.

Sweet April! Many a thought swedded unto thee, as hearts are wed; Yor shall they fail till, to its autumn brought, ife's golden fruit is shed.

LONGFELLOW.

(Continued from Page 199.)

FIRST DAY (evening session)

30 o'clock p.m. The President in chair called the convention to

r. Smith, at the call of the chair, his paper on "Exhibitions of ey" as follows :

hibits of honey at our local fairs shibitions have come to be recogas being as much a part of agriral displays as fruits and ables, and in any locality where expers have taken sufficient st in agricultural societies, and ed their meetings, the Directors seen to it that the premiums iberal and encouraging.

re is no better means of educatgeneral public in the nature of honey then by a good disfairs. I do not mean such as ly called for in many prize "Strained, five pounds," and "In comb, five pounds," which is often taken literally. The liquid is very much strained, but not all of the pollen strained out of it, and, as I have seen, large brood combs shown for "comb." All this is pretty good evidence that their was no up-to-date bee-keeper on the committee for revising the prize list.

The Secretary and Directors of agricultural societies are generally progressive and intelligent men who wish to have their exhibition outshine all others, and to do this they must be well informed. I have always found them willing to do all possible in the way of alloting space and offering premiums for displays of honey, especially after it has been shown what an attractive display may be made with honey and other products of the apiary. Of course I do not mean that display should be encouraged before quality; quality should count most, every time.

Some years ago, when living in Muskoka, I exhibited honey at the Muskoka County Fair, showing the small quantities called for in the prize list. It was classed with preserves, pickles and other home produce and attracted no particular attention. The next year I exhibited at the industrial at Toronto, and, on my return to Bracebridge, applied for space at the County Fair to put up a display of comb honey in sections; also extracted honey, both clover and