

mother sang, has raised the poor dead soul in me, and made the little Irish boy come back after many buried years and sit again in the Irish cabin with the mother who loved him as no one else ever loved him...

"To-morrow may cover him again with the cloak of human respect and avarice. If not, may he rest in peace the ways of years, be they good or bad, but white the centuries memories of the only good I ever knew are uppermost in my heart. I must tell you that I know the emotion that will have faith, and loyalty to the best that is in us."

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

"I have a young man here to night fresh from the old land, with the kisses and prayers of a mother, because the little Irish boy in his heart? Are the hustle and riches of the world? Are the world already fascinating him and driving out the memory of the songs around the bedside at night, the innocent love and wholesome teaching, the smiles of parents and friends and the faith that has made him free?"

A REPLY TO ARCHDEACON ARMITAGE

REV. P. W. BROWN, D.D.

CONTINUED FROM ISSUE OF FEB. 25th.

Now what does Protestantism stand for? Quite recently a distinguished Jesuit in a sermon preached at Montreal during the Eucharistic Congress, termed it a "soulless religion." This utterance brought forth furious denunciations from Protestant ministers of every sect and profession from Vancouver to Halifax. Father Vaughan did not object to the expression; it was used more than half a century ago by Dr. Wiseman when, in conjunction with O'Connell and McQuinn he established that famous periodical, The Dublin Review. This was established, as set forth in its first page, to "keep lifted on the mark of battle under which (the Oxford Movement) had gathered its ranks."

"What then shall we say of any Protestant doctrine?—The first thing that strikes the eye is the total absence of any authority from the Bible, save and without any other surrenders the keeping of infallibility of that authority to the Church against which it protested, and from which it separated in the sixteenth century as a function of religious error." (New York Sun, of recent date.)

"The Theology of Protestantism in the sense of an infallible Bible doctrine has ceased to exist." (Thoughts on the Present Position of Protestantism, A. Hoff Hensok, p. 29.)

"What then shall we say of any Protestant doctrine?—The first thing that strikes the eye is the total absence of any authority from the Bible, save and without any other surrenders the keeping of infallibility of that authority to the Church against which it protested, and from which it separated in the sixteenth century as a function of religious error." (New York Sun, of recent date.)

"The Theology of Protestantism in the sense of an infallible Bible doctrine has ceased to exist." (Thoughts on the Present Position of Protestantism, A. Hoff Hensok, p. 29.)

formed Churches, have become unevangelical and rationalistic in fact, whatever they may be in name. In Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and elsewhere, the indications of a revival of Oldism, or old Scandinavian heathenism, in England and Scotland the older delism of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is a sure sign of a more spiritual revival, which is only miserable humanism; and in this country (America) Protestantism tends to reject all dogmas, to make Christianity a mere scenic display, and to substitute a revived superstition and demon-worship. (Brownson Works, Vol. x, p. 256.)

Just a few more excerpts to demonstrate that Protestantism is but a last stage of decay in vital religion: "We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

formed Churches, have become unevangelical and rationalistic in fact, whatever they may be in name. In Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and elsewhere, the indications of a revival of Oldism, or old Scandinavian heathenism, in England and Scotland the older delism of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is a sure sign of a more spiritual revival, which is only miserable humanism; and in this country (America) Protestantism tends to reject all dogmas, to make Christianity a mere scenic display, and to substitute a revived superstition and demon-worship. (Brownson Works, Vol. x, p. 256.)

Just a few more excerpts to demonstrate that Protestantism is but a last stage of decay in vital religion: "We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

formed Churches, have become unevangelical and rationalistic in fact, whatever they may be in name. In Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and elsewhere, the indications of a revival of Oldism, or old Scandinavian heathenism, in England and Scotland the older delism of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is a sure sign of a more spiritual revival, which is only miserable humanism; and in this country (America) Protestantism tends to reject all dogmas, to make Christianity a mere scenic display, and to substitute a revived superstition and demon-worship. (Brownson Works, Vol. x, p. 256.)

Just a few more excerpts to demonstrate that Protestantism is but a last stage of decay in vital religion: "We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

formed Churches, have become unevangelical and rationalistic in fact, whatever they may be in name. In Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and elsewhere, the indications of a revival of Oldism, or old Scandinavian heathenism, in England and Scotland the older delism of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is a sure sign of a more spiritual revival, which is only miserable humanism; and in this country (America) Protestantism tends to reject all dogmas, to make Christianity a mere scenic display, and to substitute a revived superstition and demon-worship. (Brownson Works, Vol. x, p. 256.)

Just a few more excerpts to demonstrate that Protestantism is but a last stage of decay in vital religion: "We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

"We are beginning to see in Protestant Christianity the practical denial of all revelation whatsoever." (Mallock, Life Worth Living, p. 273.)

Cowan's Nut Milk Chocolate

A chocolate confection of rich milk chocolate and fresh shelled walnuts. Simply exquisite. In 1/4 and 1/2 pound cakes.

The Cowan Co. Limited, Toronto.

long to the "body" of the Church, you have no right to presume that he does not want to belong to the "soul" of the Church. Ask him if he wishes to be baptized and to die in the friendship of God. You may be surprised at his willingness. There is many a man in good faith who desires to do God's will, yet for some cause or other, for which he is not wholly responsible, is not formally affiliated with Christ's Church.

CAPTAIN JACK CRAWFORD'S TRIBUTE TO CATHOLIC SISTERS

On all God's green and beautiful earth, earth, there are no purer, no nobler, no more kind-hearted and self-sacrificing women than those who wear the sombre garb of Catholic Sisters. During the war, I had many opportunities to observe their noble and heroic work, not only in camp and hospital, but on the death-bed of the wounded, where they were blessed in unending gloom, and shot and shell flew madly with demoralizing shrieks, where dead and mangled forms lay with pale blood-flecked faces, yet wearing the scowl of battle, I have seen the blessed Sisters morning, night, and day, their solicited faces wet with the tears of sympathy, administering to the wants of the wounded and whispering words of comfort into the ears soon to be defaced by the cold implacable hand of death.

How many a veteran of the war, who wore the Blue or the Gray, can yet recall the soothing touch of a Sister's hand, as he lay upon the pillow of a hospital. Can we ever forget their sympathetic eyes, their low, soft, soothing words of encouragement and cheer when the result of the struggle between life and death yet hung in the balance? Oh, how often have I followed the form of that good Sister Valencia, with my sunken eyes, as she moved away from my cot to the cot of another sufferer, and have breathed from the most sacred depths of my faith, brotherly heart the fervent prayer, God bless her!

"My friend, I am not a Catholic, but I stand ready, at any and all times, to defend these noble women, even with my life, for I owe that life to them!"—Denver Register.

BLOOD BAD IN THE WINTER

INDOOR LIFE, TOO LITTLE EXERCISE, BREATHING IMPURE AIR, EATING ARTIFICIAL FOODS

Is it any wonder that the system becomes poisoned with impure waste matter in the winter when you think of the artificial life we lead? With doors and windows tight shut we breathe the same air over and over again until it is incapable of purifying the blood. It is an effort to cast the poisons out of the system the liver and kidneys are worked over time until they are played out. Then comes the pains in the back, the headaches, the attacks of constipation and indigestion. The quickest and most certain way to overcome this condition is by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They act definitely and directly on the liver and kidneys, awaken them to renew energy in filtering poisons from the bowels and remove the cause of indigestion, backache and other body pains.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.

How to Treat Non-Catholics

Because people differ with us about religion, is no reason why we should hate them. They may be just as sincere as we are. They were brought up in their belief and they think it the truth. We should pray for them that the Holy Ghost may lead them to His light. We should take occasion to give them Catholic books to read. We should explain to them our religion, and still more important, we should live it, to let them see it in practice. Then we should love them and to them all the good that is in our power.

That's the way for us to treat non-Catholics. That's the way to make converts.—Catholic Columbian.