

CANADIAN AVIATORS

London Advertiser—According to a despatch from a special correspondent in London, half of the British Army fliers are Canadians. This is almost incredible when it is remembered that there are only about 300,000 Canadians in France, while the rest of the British army runs into millions. It is a fact, however, that Canadians have been found particularly fitted for aerial work, which appeals to them because it permits of exercise of more individuality than any other branch of service, and because their native daring and fondness for "taking a chance" has endless opportunities.

Word has been received that Philip Manning, second son of L. O. Manning of Chester, died on June 2nd, of wounds received in action. This brave young man held a commission of lieutenant, but reverted in order to get to the front quickly and joined the Highland Brigade. The family and relatives have the sympathy of a large number of friends in their bereavement.

RETURN OF CAPT. HUGH MOORE

On Thursday Capt Hugh Moore arrived at Halifax on steamer and came forward to Kentville on Saturday where he was most heartily welcomed. He has done a noble part in the war and returns for a short time to visit his father Dr. W. B. Moore, Kentville.

Capt. Moore enlisted May 26, 1915, and took exams with the C.A.M.C. He sailed from Montreal and on arrival in England joined the R.A.M.C. for overseas medical work. After a few weeks he left for the battle front and his work was along different parts of the line. He went to the Somme last June and remained three or four months going for the winter north to the Ypres salient and then about three months south of Arras. He had trying experiences in Loos, the battles around Arras, Croisilles, etc. and had many very narrow escapes. At Loos six of the medical staff were killed. Mr. Moore was wounded slightly twice and on another occasion his steel helmet saved his life from a piece of shell. He certainly was most fortunate in escaping serious injury. He expects to return to Europe again in August and will probably see more strenuous fighting and do more work for humanity in helping to save the lives and relieve the suffering of his fellow soldiers.

Capt. Moore is looking well and thinks his experience of great value to him in his chosen profession.

A RECORD FAMILY

Mrs. John L. Murphy, of this town has already seen four of her sons leave for the overseas fighting, and now her son Harry, who has been in the West for several years, arrived in town on Monday on his way to the front. He belongs to a regiment that have been stationed in Winnipeg for some months undergoing the necessary preparations. This makes five sons, all strong young men, all fighters, that she has sent to the front.

Harry had a somewhat interesting experience while journeying from the West to his home here a couple of days in advance of his regiment. While passing through Quebec, he was seriously insulted by the natives, spit upon and booed. Harry was alone, but they could not frighten him. Nothing is more like a "red rag to a bull" than for a French Canadian to see anyone in the front.—Acadian.

CENTRAL ASSOCIATION

The Central Baptist Association of Nova Scotia held its annual session at Gaspereau ending last week. It was well attended and all the services were of special interest. We have not been able to obtain a copy of the proceedings. Martin of the reception committee deserves much credit for his thoughtful and kind attention to all details.

What Say the Music CRITICS?

The music critic of a big New York Newspaper is the most blase of mankind. He has lost all his illusions and most of his enthusiasms. He hears the voices of great singers of the world every day so the edge is off his appetite for even the most splendid music. What do such men say when they hear THE NEW EDISON?

Edison Has Snared the Soul of Music

So said the music critic of the New York Tribune. And the music critic of the New York Globe called the New Edison "the phonograph with a soul".

Grand Opera comes every day to the home that has a New Edison. Has yours? You'll miss a lot of fun this summer if you lack one.

N. H. PHINNEY & COMPANY LIMITED KENTVILLE BRANCH

NOTICE—Please do not ask us to sell you Edison Re-Creations if you intend to attempt to play them on any other instrument, than the New Edison. No other instrument can bring out the true musical quality of Edison Re-Creations.
