EVENING PRAYER.

Ere on my bed my limbs I lay
It hath not been my use to pray
With folded hands or bended knees;
But silently, by slow degrees,
My spirit I to love compose,
In humble trust mine eyelids close
With reverential resignation:
No wish conceived, no thought expressed.
Only a sense of supplication—
A sense of awe and awe's impress
That I am weak but not unblest,
Since in me, round me, everywhere, Eternal Strength and Wisdom are.
—Coleridge.

THE LOSS OF THE ROYAL GEORGE

August 29th, 1782.

Toll for the brave!
The brave that are no more!
All sunk beneath the wave,
Fast by their native shore!

Eight hundred of the brave,
Whose courage well was tried,
Had made the vessel heel,
And laid her on her side.

A land-breeze shook the shrouds,
And she was overboard,
Down went the 'Royal George',
With all her crew complete.

Toll for the brave!
Brave Kempenfeldt is gone,
His last sea-fight is fought,
His work of glory done.

It was not in the battle:
No tempest gave the shock;
She sprang, no fatal leak,
She ran upon the rock.

His sword was in its sheath;
His fingers held the pen,
When Kempenfeldt went down,
With twice four hundred men.

Weigh the vessel up
Once dreaded by our foes!
And mingle with our cup
The tear that England owes.

Her timbers yet are sound,
And she may float again,
Full-charged with England's thunder,
And plough the distant main.

But Kempenfeldt is gone,
His victories are o'er;
And he, and his eight hundred,
Shall plough the wave no more.
—Cowper.

WILL.

Oh, well for him whose will is strong!
He suffers, but he will not suffer long;
He suffers, but he cannot suffer wrong.

For this he moves the loud world's random mock,
Nor all Calamity's hugest waves confound;

Who seems a promontory of rock,
That, compassed round with turbulent sound,
In middle ocean meets the surging shock.

Tempest-buffeted, citadel-crowned,
But ill for him who, bettering not with time,
Corrupts the strength of heaven-descended will.

And ever weaker grows through acted crime,
Or seeming-genial venial fault,
Recurring and suggesting still!

He seems as one whose footsteps halt,
Tolling in immeasurable sand,
And o'er a weary, sultry land,
Far beneath a blazing vault.

Sown in a wrinkle of the monstrous hill,
The city sparkles like a grain of salt.

—Tennyson.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well, You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late to say: "If I had only, etc., etc."

That "If" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more then his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

WESTERN FISHERY NEWS.—The
Portia, which just returned from S.
W. Coast points, reports fish scarce in that section; also at a few places where there is a sign of cod, there is no bait to be had. Five vessels were at Cape Broyle yesterday seeking bait.

OLD AND YOUNG.

They soon grow old who grope for gold
In marts where all is bought and sold;
Who live for self, and on some shelf
In darkened vaults hoard up their gold.

They ne'er grow old who gather gold
Where spring awakes and flowers unfold;
Where suns arise in joyous skies,
And fill the soul within their eyes.

For them the immortal bards have sung,
For them old age itself is young.
—Cranch.

LIGHT OF STARS.

Platiness and clearness without shadow of stain!
Clearness divine!
Ye Heavens, whose pure dark regions have no sign

Of languor, though so calm; and,
though so great,
Are yet untroubled and unpassionate;
Who though so noble share in the world's toil.

And though so tasked keep free from dust and soil.
I will not say that your mild deeps retain

A tinge, it may be, of their silent pain
Who have longed deeply once, and longed in vain;
But I will rather say that you remain
A world above man's head, to let him see

How boundless might his soul's horizons be,
How vast, yet of what clear transparency;
How it were good to sink there, and breathe free;

How fair a lot to fill
Is left to each man still.
—Matthew Arnold.

POVERTY.

It is not poverty so much as presence that harasses a ruined man—the struggle between a proud mind and an empty purse—the keeping up of a hollow show that must soon come to an end. Have the courage to appear poor, and you disarm poverty of its sharpest sting.

—Mrs. Jameson.
O blissful poverty!

Nature, too partial to thy lot, assigns Health, freedom, innocence, and downy peace.
Her real goodness and only mocks the great

With empty pageantries. —Penton.
He is poor whose expenses exceed his income. —La Bruyere.

That man is not poor who has the use of things necessary. —Horace.

THE TEST OF LIFE.

Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand: Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: For I was a hungry, and ye gave me no meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me not in; naked, and ye clothed me not; sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not. Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungry, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee? Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it not to me.

—St. Matthew xxv.
