

THE BETTER WAY TO TAKE CARE OF FLOORS

AN O-Cedar Polish Mop will free you from the hardest of all house-work—the dusting, cleaning and polishing of floors. With this Mop you dust, clean and polish, all at one operation. The O-Cedar Polish Mop collects all the dust—and at the same time gives the floor a high, dry, lasting polish.

The O-Cedar Polish Mop makes it easy to clean those "hard-to-get-at" places. No more moving heavy furniture—no more climbing to dust the tops of doors—the O-Cedar Polish Mop reaches you of all this back-breaking work. The satisfaction it gives, adds to the O-Cedar Polish with which it is treated—a Polish unequalled for cleaning and beautifying all parlours and wood-work.

Both at your Hardware or Grocery Shop,
CHANNEL CHEMICAL COMPANY, LIMITED, TORONTO

O-Cedar Polish

"Love in the Wilds"

—OR—
 The Romance of a South African Trading Station.

CHAPTER LVII
 "THE TIME HAS COME!"

"There you are, you see, sir! This is just what I expected. Here you are a-fretting yourself about these 'ere gimcracks and a-undoing' all the good as they have done. This is what I told the doctor when he says to me, quite severe-like: 'Don't you let him get excited, he must be kept quiet or I won't answer for it! For goodness' sake, sir, if you don't want to get into trouble lay down again!'"

This appeal had the desired effect. Hugh dropped upon the pillow again with a sigh, and said:

"I am an honest man and do not want to reward your noble kindness by deceit. I tell you I am unable to pay for all these things. I haven't a shilling in the world."

Mr. Wiley smiled behind his hand and winked at Mrs. Tovey with supreme enjoyment. It was rich for this man, for whose safe-keeping he was paid at the rate of twenty pounds a week, to be mourning over his inability to pay his doctor's bill.

"Never you mind that, sir; we didn't do it for your money"—which was very true, considering it was the strange young gentleman's. "We have got hearts, sir, I should hope, and we've done as we should hope to be done by."

Hugh stirred uneasily.

"All this but adds to your kindness."

friend, and my obligation. The fact still remains that I am a penniless man and that grapes are half a crown a pound."

"Penniless, sir? What's the odds?" rejoined Mr. Wiley, getting rather alarmed, for there was a latent air of decision that gave him a hint of the firm, stern will of his charge. "What's the odds, as I says to Tovey, whether the gen'l'man has got the chink or not? He'll get well soon enough, and then what few pounds there is owt' he can work off here in the docks."

Hugh looked up, eagerly, caught by this artful speech, exactly as Mr. Wiley had intended he should be.

"Work?" he said. "Can you give me any work here in the docks for a H's while, so that I can pay for all this?"

"Of course I can," said Mr. Wiley. "Then I will get up to-morrow, and

SCHOOL GIRL TELLS OTHERS

How They Can Find Relief From Periodic Sufferings.

Nashua, N. H.—"I am nineteen years old and every month for two years I had such pains that I would often faint and have to leave school. I had such pain I did not know what to do with myself and tried so many remedies that were of no use. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and this is how I found relief from pain and feel so much better than I used to. When I hear of any girl suffering as I did I tell them how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me."—DELINA MARTIN, 23 Bowers St., Nashua, N. H.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, therefore is perfectly safe remedy to give your daughter, who suffers from such painful periods as did Miss Martin.

The reason so many girls write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice, is because from their 40 years experience they have a store of knowledge which is invariably helpful.

ent, grave readiness that, while it attracted and evoked his fellow laborers' admiration, commanded their respect.

Mr. Wiley grew alarmed; his invalid's strength came back to him so magically that he felt it would soon be a very difficult task to keep him within bounds of the docks.

"I never see such a chap," he remarked to Mr. Tovey, in an undertone, as they stood together watching Hugh hoist an unusual load into the crane.

"He's a gentleman, any one can see, by the way he carries himself. But did you ever see any one with such a pair of legs and arms before? After his illness, too. It's wonderful, that's what it is—wonderful! 'Pon my soul, Tovey, I didn't give the gentry credit for so much pluck!"

"Ah, it's all blood, blood, Joe—all blood," said Mr. Tovey, sentimentally. "High breedin' is the same in a man as it is in a race 'os. But I'm thinking as he'll soon have worked off the debt you put him down at. What'll you do then?"

Mr. Wiley shook his head.

"That's just what I'm asking myself. He won't have cleared it off for a day or two, but it wants nigh upon a week to the time the young gentleman arranged for. I heard from him last night, and he says we are not to let him leave the dock on no account."

"Ah, it's all very well to talk!" said Mr. Tovey; "but if he said as he wanted to go who'd stop him, I should like to know!"

"Hush! here he comes. Oh, he's going to the gate now!"

And Mr. Wiley, with a well-feigned air of easy indifference, strolled off to interrupt Hugh, who, wiping his forehead, was striding toward the dock entrance.

"Good-evening, sir," said Mr. Wiley. Hugh nodded with grave courtesy. "Good-evening," he said.

"Very warm," said Mr. Wiley, sitting down beside him. "I'm afraid as you are putting it on a little too hard, sir, considering all things. You will upset yourself again if you don't take care."

"That reminds me," replied Hugh, taking no notice of the caution, and thrusting his hand into his pocket. "Here are fifteen shillings. I forgot to give them to you this morning. How much am I in your debt now? I mean for actual money spent—for kindness I shall always be your debtor."

And he smiled gratefully.

"Don't you mention it, sir," said Mr. Wiley, putting the fifteen shillings into his pocket, but very reluctantly. "You are welcome to all the kindness, if there is any, and, for the matter of that, so you are to the money, if so be as I could afford it."

"I believe it, my friend; you are a good fellow—but come, I am anxious to be out of your debt, or as far as I can. How much does that leave?"

ent, grave readiness that, while it attracted and evoked his fellow laborers' admiration, commanded their respect.

Mr. Wiley grew alarmed; his invalid's strength came back to him so magically that he felt it would soon be a very difficult task to keep him within bounds of the docks.

"I never see such a chap," he remarked to Mr. Tovey, in an undertone, as they stood together watching Hugh hoist an unusual load into the crane.

"He's a gentleman, any one can see, by the way he carries himself. But did you ever see any one with such a pair of legs and arms before? After his illness, too. It's wonderful, that's what it is—wonderful! 'Pon my soul, Tovey, I didn't give the gentry credit for so much pluck!"

"Ah, it's all blood, blood, Joe—all blood," said Mr. Tovey, sentimentally. "High breedin' is the same in a man as it is in a race 'os. But I'm thinking as he'll soon have worked off the debt you put him down at. What'll you do then?"

Mr. Wiley shook his head.

"That's just what I'm asking myself. He won't have cleared it off for a day or two, but it wants nigh upon a week to the time the young gentleman arranged for. I heard from him last night, and he says we are not to let him leave the dock on no account."

"Ah, it's all very well to talk!" said Mr. Tovey; "but if he said as he wanted to go who'd stop him, I should like to know!"

"Hush! here he comes. Oh, he's going to the gate now!"

And Mr. Wiley, with a well-feigned air of easy indifference, strolled off to interrupt Hugh, who, wiping his forehead, was striding toward the dock entrance.

"Good-evening, sir," said Mr. Wiley. Hugh nodded with grave courtesy. "Good-evening," he said.

"Very warm," said Mr. Wiley, sitting down beside him. "I'm afraid as you are putting it on a little too hard, sir, considering all things. You will upset yourself again if you don't take care."

"That reminds me," replied Hugh, taking no notice of the caution, and thrusting his hand into his pocket. "Here are fifteen shillings. I forgot to give them to you this morning. How much am I in your debt now? I mean for actual money spent—for kindness I shall always be your debtor."

And he smiled gratefully.

"Don't you mention it, sir," said Mr. Wiley, putting the fifteen shillings into his pocket, but very reluctantly. "You are welcome to all the kindness, if there is any, and, for the matter of that, so you are to the money, if so be as I could afford it."

"I believe it, my friend; you are a good fellow—but come, I am anxious to be out of your debt, or as far as I can. How much does that leave?"

Keeps Baby's Skin Healthy

If every mother could only realize the danger which lurks in the neglect of chafing and skin irritations she would not take chances on being without Dr. Chase's Ointment to apply after baby's bath.

It arrests the development of eczema and makes the skin soft, smooth and velvety.

All dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

GERALD S. DOYLE,
 Water St., St. John's,
 Distributing Agent.

TOLEDO SCALES

No Springs—Honest Weight

The Scale with the sign "Toledo—No Springs—Honest Weight" protects the customer against short-weight, and the merchant from over-weight. It is the square deal Scale, giving sixteen ounces to every pound, no more, no less.

Look for the sign.
Fred. V. Chesman,
 178 Water Street.
 Ine25, eod, 4t

"A matter of a pound or two—leaving the doctor's bill out, sir; but there ain't no hurry."

Hugh raised his eyebrows.

"I think differently," he said, with a smile.

Wiley looked at the gate.

"You mustn't think of going out, sir."

Hugh rose from his seat with an easy grace and, laughing his short, grim laugh for the first time in Mr. Wiley's ears, said:

"Come, my friend, you are rather distrustful. You need not fear my running away till we have settled. There, make your mind easy. I give you my word I shall not pass those gates—much as I desire—until I have paid every penny your charity has cost you."

And with a kindly pat on the shoulder he walked away with the much-relieved Wiley, who took the opportunity as he passed his partner of whispering:

"All right, Tovey; he's give his word."

In the evening, after the usual cup of tea, Hugh looked up and asked for a sheet of note-paper, pen and ink.

Joe, with seeming celerity, got them and placed them before him, and Hugh wrote a letter; not a long one, but one that cost him some thought, for once or twice he looked up from the paper and sighed.

It was done at last, however, and inclosing it in the envelope, he directed it, saying to old Mrs. Tovey as he did so:

"It is a long while since I have used pen and paper—I have almost forgotten how to write."

"A letter?" said Joe. "Want it posted, sir? I'm going out directly and I'll take it if you like."

"Thanks," said Hugh, and he gave it to him, resuming his old, thoughtful attitude immediately.

Joe Wiley got up, reached his cap from its peg behind the door and, with a wink to the old gentleman, left the house.

At the gate he stopped to look at the direction on the envelope, and at that moment was startled by a slight tap at the small door.

Hastily dropping the note into his pocket, he opened it and saw Mr. John Stanfield, who was carefully wrapped up about the lower part of his face in a light silken shawl which, together with his blue spectacles, so hid his features that had it not been for his figure Mr. Wiley would not have recognized him.

"Hello, sir!" he exclaimed; but a warning gesture of the secretary's stopped him.

"Hush!" said he, looking round carefully. "Is he anywhere near?"

"No, sir; inside the cottage," replied Joe, and he stepped through the gate. "All right, sir; he's inside, quite comfortable."

"And well?" asked the secretary, eagerly.

"Well—quite well," replied Mr. Wiley. "I never see any one pick up so soon. Why, he's as strong as a lion."

A faint tinge, almost of pride, flushed the young gentleman's brow, but he remained silent for a moment, then said:

"And you have kept the secret?"

(To be Continued.)

Coats long, from hip to hem. Fine fabrics are favored for fall. Dress sleeves are decidedly longer.

Fashion Plates.

A SERVICEABLE "COVER ALL" APRON.

Pattern 3296 is portrayed in this design. It is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 32-34; Medium, 36-38; Large, 40-42; and Extra Large, 44-46 inches bust measure. A Medium size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

Figured percale is here shown, with bindings of white cambric. Chambray, gingham, lawn, drill, saten and alpaca could be used for this style.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A SIMPLE SET OF HAT AND APRON.

Pattern 3285 is portrayed in this attractive model. It is cut in 5 Sizes: 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 4 year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the Apron and 1 yard for the Hat.

Apron and Hat may be made of the same material. Cretonne, linen, drill, gingham, chambray, percale and shantung could be used. The apron may serve as a dress, and be worn with bloomers.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

BE PROTECTED

Don't break your eyeglasses! See our Slip-on Adjustable Eyeglass Temples. Slip them on your PINCE-NEZ while motoring, golfing, etc. Only a limited number at $2.50 a pair.

R. H. TRAPNELL, Ltd.
 Jewellers and Opticians.

EAS'EM

will quickly relieve those Tired, Aching Feet.

"Dust it in your shoes."
 Price 30c. tin.

PETER O'MARA,
 The Druggist.
 "In business for your health."

Cleaned CURRANTS!

NEW CROP.
 Just Arrived One Pound Cartons.
 For Lowest Price

W. A. MUNN,
 Board of Trade Building.

Advertise in the Evening Telegram

"EXCEL" BOOTS FOR FISHERMEN

"BEST IN THE WORLD."

Sold by all reliable dealers. Fully guaranteed by

PARKER & MONROE, Ltd.
 SOLE AGENTS.

A Suit or Overcoat at Maunder's, selected from a splendid variety of British Woollens, cut by an up-to-date system from the latest fashions, moulded and made to your shape by expert workers, costs you no more than the ordinary hand-me-down. We always keep our stocks complete, and you are assured a good selection. Samples and style sheets sent to any address.

John Maunder,
 Tailor and Clothier, 822-818 Duckworth Street

BE PROTECTED

Don't break your eyeglasses! See our Slip-on Adjustable Eyeglass Temples. Slip them on your PINCE-NEZ while motoring, golfing, etc. Only a limited number at $2.50 a pair.

R. H. TRAPNELL, Ltd.
 Jewellers and Opticians.

Cleaned CURRANTS!

NEW CROP.
 Just Arrived One Pound Cartons.
 For Lowest Price

W. A. MUNN,
 Board of Trade Building.

Advertise in the Evening Telegram