Three London Players To Go To Kitchener Club

Initial Race On the Gr: J Calbert As Probable Manager With Kuhn and Briger Involved in Deal-Franchise May Yet Be Sold

> KITCHENER, Ont., July 7 .-Within a few days some radical changes may take place in the Beavers personnel. Things have not been satisfactory in the Beaver camp the past two months and drastic measures will be taken to save the franchise. If they fail, the franchise goes. The Kitchener directors have a chance to get three first-class players from London, Calbert, Kuhn and Briger are involved. A change in the man-

Briger, however, will be a real he'p to the Beavers' playing strength. Kuhn is going great this year and is a dangerous hitter at all times. Joe Briger is in a class by himself when it comes to being the foundation of a ball team. The fans will be sorry to so Joe transferred to Kitchener if the deal actually goes through. Despite his long service, Joe is better than the average backstop in the league and there is no man on the London club roster the fans would rather see go to bat in a pinch than "Young Joe." This means four vacancies to be filled on the London club.

Arrangements for this year's shooting in the standior. The Brants split even on the series with Bay City, which is not such a bad showing, particularly when the Tecum-sehs are unable to make the grade. It would look as if the summer slump is on for the league leaders. Last year, it will be remembered, the Eondon team went through the season without a slump or a break. Everything went their way, while the Brants, who were the real fighters against London, ran into a streak of hard luck, which meant five players in the hospital and a general drop in the standing. This year it is London's turn. If the Brants could hit a winning streak shortiv, they ought to be able to catch up on the Londoners. Next week's games here with the league leaders will be vital ones.
