Underwood

A Contest for the Typewriting Championship of the world was held in New York on Sept. 30.

It was won by Miss Rose L. Fritz, the famous Underwood operator, who wrote 102 words a minute for one hour.

The Underwood has won the world's championship in thirteen successive contests. It has won every other contest of importance in recent years.

Contests subject a machine to the severest strain. The logical deduction is that the Underwood is a good typewriter.
