

Handwritten text in red ink, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is mostly illegible but appears to contain several lines of information, possibly a name and address.

Handwritten text in black ink, also likely bleed-through from the reverse side. It appears to be a list or a set of notes, with some words being difficult to decipher due to the bleed-through effect.