BAER ON UNIONISM. Lawlessness at the Mines Result of Organized Effort. Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—Presilent Baer argued before the coal strike mmission to-day against unionism He said: In general, no one denies the right of men to organize for any lawful purpose, but the right to organize, and the power of the organization when organized must still be governed and controlled by the general law of the land under which ur individual and property rights are I rotected. We concede to organized labor the same rights that we claim for organized capital. Each must keep within the law. There cannot be one law in the law. There cannot be one law for citizens, and corporations, and an other for labor organizations. The lawlessness in the coal regions was the direct result of mistaken theories as to the rights of the mine workers. It will not do to say that the leaders have not encouraged violence and crime. It is true, nor doubt that they did not advise it. They may at times have counselled against it, and expressed regrets for it; nevertheless, they are legally and morally responsible for the situation they created, and from which this violence and crime necessarily resulted. The leaders intended to enforce their demands by the threatened destruction of the mines. They well knew that of the mines. They well knew that if the pumping ceased the mines would be destroyed. They thought the operators would yield rather than see the ruin of the mines. The public is nove suffering for want of an adequate supply of fuel. Think what the result would have been had the efforts of the union to drown out all our collieries been successful.

He declared the miners have created the miners have created and concessions. They would be miners have created and concessions, franchises, rights and concessions, franchises, rights and concessions, franchises, rights and power company. He declared the miners have creat- extent all
