IMPOSSIBLE TO EAT FOOD SERVED AT ASYLUM, SAY EMPLOYEES AT INQUIRY

Witnesses Testify That Patients Suffering From Serious IIIness Grossly Neglected— Employees Carried Food To Homes in Automobiles—Bad Fish and Bad Eggs Served To Patients.

Further corroborations of Lawder's statements was heard at the asylum inquiry on Friday afternoon. Miss Sarah McMullen said that in August, 1919, in company with Mrs. Johnston, who was in charge of the dining-room, she saw George Neal, supervisor of the boilerhouse, loading boxes of goods into an auto. She also saw Sam Roberts carrying some dressed lumber along the sideroad, and when an auto was approaching and passing him, he acted in what she said was a very suspictous manner. She said laundry was being done in the institution for the families of the employees. She said that Mrs. Walker and her husband lived at the Nine years ago, a patient, who was J. Loaded Goods Into Auto.

Miss McMullen stated that she saw Neal loading goods into his auto at the boiler-house. She said that in the employees' dining-room there was lots of soup, although it ran short on many occasions.

The potatoes, she claimed, were improperly peeled. They came up to the dining-room with part of the skin still clinging to them. In order to overcome the monotony and sameness of the poor-

U.S. AMBASSADOR TO GT. BRITAIN ACTED ON SPECIAL ADVICE

Political Editor of French Paper Refers To Certain Instructions.

WILSON'S ATTITUDE

President Wanted Some Time Before Dispatching

Paris, Feb. 21.—John W. Davis, United States ambassador to Great Britain last night spoke in London of "certain instructions" he had received from President Wilson, although the president's note to the supreme allied council has not yet arrived at the British capital, says "Pertiniax," political editor of the Echo De Paris.

"In order to properly follow the course of events," he writes, "it should be said that the note received by the council from President Wilson on February 13 was in answer to a statement sent to the state department in Wash-

"You are going much too far and much too fast. President Wilson cannot follow you."

Earl Curzon Drafts Note.

"Earl Curzon then drafted his note, which was intended to calm Mr. Wilson's anxiety, assure him that the greatest deference would be shown his views, and that Ambassador Wallace would be kept fully informed. Apparently after three weeks of patient waiting, President Wilson felt these soft words would not be enough. It can thus be seen the note of February 13 was not a 'bolt from the blue.'

"Knowledge of certain facts may also throw light on Mr. Wilson's probable policy relative to Turkish affairs. In October the American president formally asked the peace conference to postpone drafting the Turkish treaty until spring. He hoped, if the conference agreed to his demand, to be able to join in the task. Rapid developments in the Near East situation, however, prevented compliance with his wishes. It by no means follows, therefore, that Mr. Wilson will ratify all that has been elaborated without him. In one of the last meetings of the supreme council it was decided that before the treaty was communicated to the Turks it would be submitted for approval to 'our great associate."
