THE HEROIC DOLL

BY NORA ARDENE.

Edna and Selma were having tea in the shade of the old apple tree. They sat on a chair by her side, but it was far from new. The fact is, Arabella May had been left out doors all night in the spring by her fond, but rather forgetful, mother, and the hard rain that had fallen had washed all color from her face and loosened the glue that held her hair in place, so that she was totally bald, with a great hole in the back of her head, and with pallid lips and cheeks.

"Arabella May is not at all well," explained Selma. "The poor dear took such a frightful cold the night I forgot and locked her out in the rain."

"You careless woman," exclaimed Edna. "You surely didn't leave that delicate child out in the rain all night?"

"Isn't it a shame?" cried Selma, catching Arabella in her arms and giving her a good hug.

"And to think that the sweet little dear has been those dangers all alone in the night, and proved herself a hero."

Edna and Selma were having tea in the shade of the old apple tree.

"You mean a hero, of course," corrected Edna. "Tell me all about it, just as she told it to you."

By Edna meant to include her own doll. There are people who say $1,000,000, on which there was not a penny of insurance. It will not be rebuilt.

Twenty-seven buildings along the east side of the old Bowery, between Steeplechase Park and Henderson's Walk, were ing, and Arabella May said there was a sound of breaking and tearing that frightened her so much. It must have been when the limb broke off the big maple.

"Isn't it dreadful? Oh, I should hate to sleep out all night in the dark."

"Specially if it was raining. But real people like us could have gone in on the porch and found shelter there but this little innocent had to lie out in the rain and take it all. Arabella May could hear Daffy Down Dilly begging the rain to come easy, and even the big tiger lily growled because the wind and rain were beating him down. Johnny-Jump-up lay flat on the ground and moaned in terror. May Appleblossom was torn from the tree and scattered in fragments all around her poor frightened baby."

"However she stood it I don't know," Edna said.

"A hero," corrected Edna softly; then she added in a louder tone: "By all means tell us about it."

A PICTURESQUE ARRANGEMENT OF THE AUTO VEIL.

Various novelties in auto veils have made their appearance throughout the summer, and with each new veil comes a novel way of arrangement. It all depends upon the occasion and the length of the drive which way is best to arrange this serviceable, but very attractive accessory. For a long drive the head is carefully enveloped in a veil which entirely covers the head as well as the face, as a protection against the dust and dirt of the road, but for city wear or the short country drive, when one goes shopping or visiting, a light colored veil, white, pale blue or pink, with dots of black or brown is very smart and attractive worn over a small modish hat. This necessarily need not be a motor

Selma turned away the face of Arabella May. "She is so modest," she explained. "Well, when the storm was at its worst a poor little drowning bird was beaten from the tree and whirled down right against Arabella May. The child was frightened, of course, but, with wonderful presence of mind, she understood that unless something was done the poor little bird would perish. It was then she did her heroic act. The little dear, with utter unselfishness, rolled over on her side in such a way that her body sheltered the bird and saved its life. There the poor baby lay all night, with the rain soaking into her and loosening the top of her head, but she never failed in her duty for one moment. This morning we found the bird under her body, almost dry and warm."

"Why, Arabella May, you old dear!" cried Edna, matching up the dilapidated doll and kissing it fondly. "You are the most beautiful creature I ever saw. Why Selma, she was never so handsome as now. She ought to have a medal for her noble deed."

"I think of writing on to see if something can't be done," said Selma. "I would by all means. Why, that story ought to be made into a grammar." (Edna meant drama, but she is not the only person in the world who is sometimes unable to say just what she means.)

"And what about the little bird that Arabella May saved?"

"We turned it loose, but it was a most ungrateful thing," responded Selma. "It never said so much as thank you, and has never been back since. It might at least have returned and asked how Arabella May was getting along. The poor child suffered dreadfully, and it was a long time before we knew whether she would live with that great hole in her head."

But just then from the boughs of the apple tree above them rang a clear note as shrill as a bell. The little girls had difficulty in understanding it. It was the little bird that Arabella May had saved, and now it was singing its thanks. Perhaps, if you had been there you would not have known it, but the little girls understood. It said:

Give, give, give,
Either your life or a song;
Be brave in the night,

Not one person in a thousand knows that Fruit is really a wonderful medicine!

Not rare fruits—but the common, everyday fruits that you can buy in the fruit shops.

APPLES act directly on the kidneys—increased the flow of urine. ORANGES are excellent for the skin. FIGS and PRUNES are splendid bowel laxatives and liver tonics.

There are two great difficulties in curing yourself of Kidney and Bladder Troubles—Rheumatism—Constipation—Skin Eruptions, etc. by simply eating fresh fruit. First, the minute quantity of medicinal principle that you would get by eating a normal amount of fresh fruit would be insufficient to do any real good—second, eating excessive quantities of fruit would upset the stomach, on account of the indigestible pulpy fibre found in all fruits.

An Ottawa physician overcame these difficulties when he discovered the principle which brought forth "Fruit-a-tives."

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" are fruit juices—not as they occur in fruit—but with their medicinal activity greatly intensified. After the juices are extracted from the fruit, a chemical change is made to take place in which one atom of the bitter principle in fruit is replaced by one of the sweet. Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole pressed into tablet form.

Fruit-a-tives act on the three great eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin. They arouse the sluggish liver—enable the liver to give up more bile, which regulates the bowels and cures Constipation (or non-action of the bowels) Fruit-a-tives strengthen the kidneys and induce vigorous, healthy skin action.

For Headaches and Backaches—for Indigestion and Disordered Stomach—for Irregular Bowels—for all Kidney and Bladder Troubles—for Skin Eruptions—Fruit-a-tives are without an equal in the world.

HE WILL GO TO NEW YORK

Engineer Hunter Has Been Offered a Position in Gotham

At the regular monthly meeting of the water and sewerage board last evening, considerable time was spent in a private discussion of a report prepared by Mr. McIntyre, chairman of the board, on the position of the New York City water supply. A resolution was drawn up, to be presented to the council, but its purpose was not made known. Engineer Hunter sent in a communication asking the board to fix a time when he could leave the service of the city to accept a position in New York. The matter was referred to Engineer Barbour. It was decided to repair the cataraht's house at Little River reservoir at a cost of $1,200. A number of other matters reported on by the director were disposed of. The meeting was lengthy, adjourning at 11:20 o'clock.

Engineer Hunter sent in a communication to the effect that he had received a notice from the New York Civil Service Commission stating that he was successful in passing the examination for the position of assistant engineer in charge of sections on the New York water supply. He wished that the board should name a time after which he would be at liberty to leave the employment of the city at short notice. It was decided to communicate with Engineer Barbour.

Mr. Hunter, in referring to his communication, said the board could fix a time, say, about the first of next January, as the only requirement for the new position was that he be available at say four days' notice after the time he notifies

Colds on the Chest

Ask your doctor the medical name for a cold on the chest. He will say, "Bronchitis." Ask him if it is ever serious. Lastly, ask him if he prescribes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this disease. Keep in close touch with your family physician, and follow his advice carefully.

We have no secret! It's public!

PANORAMIC VIEW OF CONEY ISLAND FIRE ZONE

NEW YORK, July 31.—Coney Island was fire swept for the third time in eight years at dawn on Sunday.

George C. Tilyou's Steeplechase Park was laid in ruins, causing a loss of $1,000,000, on which there was not a penny of insurance. It will not be rebuilt.

Twenty-seven buildings along the east side of the old Bowery, between Steeplechase Park and Henderson's Walk, were licked up like houses of paper, adding an approximate $500,000 to the loss sustained by Mr. Tilyou.

Starting supposedly from a lighted cigarette thrown among refuse in the heart of Steeplechase Park, the flames leaped in all directions almost instantly. Before a fireman arrived the fire had domed the big amusement park, had caused a panic among the thousands of sleeping persons in the vicinity, and volunteer fire companies had been formed in Luna Park and Dreamland, which it was thought for an hour would be leveled by the flames.

When the fire was discovered the wind was blowing strongly out of the west, but it quickly swung to the northwest.

Under the strong wind fanning the flames the fire quickly jumped beyond the bounds of Steeplechase and began an advance toward the southeast. Adjoining the park, on the west side of Kensington Walk, were the low, flimsy frame buildings that for years have been typical of Coney's Bowery.

Of a mushroom growth and built of the most inflammable material, these structures fairly melted before the rush of flames; but before the fire reached them hundreds of persons who were housed in them had to be warned of their danger. In these buildings numberless heroic rescues, of which no formal record was taken, were made. Persons taunting from excitement and the inhalation of smoke were carried out by "barbers" and bartenders who were as indifferent to the injuries they received as to the applause that was showered on them. Women were half led and half carried to places of safety by men not noted for their gentility, but who, in the time of danger and excitement, were as considerate as the oldest firemen.

Rescuers and would-be rescuers flocked about the place, eager to risk their lives and looking for persons to save.

Ferris' Hotel, on the northwest corner of Kensington Walk and the Bowery, was the first structure outside of Steeplechase to burn. From there the flames jumped across the Bowery to Lent's Music Hall, and then on to Olsen's shooting gallery; on the southeast corner of the Bowery and Kensington Walk.

On the northeast corner, the flames burned part of two small buildings occupied by Japanese ball games. From here the fire was confined entirely to the south side of the Bowery.
