

NOVA SCOTIA BOY, 3, IS FATALLY INJURED

Caught in Belt of Portable Mill, Dies 90 Minutes After The Accident.

OXFORD, N. S., April 19.—After being gashed and bruised about the head and chin by the revolving belt in the portable saw mill at River Philip, near here, Saturday afternoon, little three-year-old Myrus Mackenzie died within an hour and a half of receiving his fatal injuries.

The child had come with his mother when she visited the mill, owned and operated by Russell King, in which his father was employed. The lad wandered away while his mother was not watching and before any one sensed his danger he had come in contact with the heavy belt. It struck the child violently on the head cutting deep gashes along the back of the skull and on the chin.

CHOIR SINGS CANTATA.
The full choir of 35 voices in St. David's church last night gave a splendid, inspirational rendering of Stainer's sacred cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus," and the church was filled to capacity with a greatly appreciative congregation. Bayard Currie was at the organ. A. C. Smith was tenor soloist and with Mrs. Blake Ferris sang a duet. E. C. Girvan in solo parts was also heard to fine advantage. Rev. Hugh Miller, the minister, related interesting facts concerning the cantata and its composer, Sir John Stainer.

I'll tell you a Beauty Secret

BEFORE long thousands of women will have heard of, and will be using a "Mentholum Steam" in preference to Cold Cream or Mud Packs. It is so much cleaner and more sanitary, takes less time and a whole lot less expensive. Just try a "Mentholum Steam"

The following extracts from recent letters are convincing—

"Gives the skin a glowing, exhilarating feeling."

"I will not be bothered with Pads after trying 'Mentholum Steam'."

"Surpasses any Cold Cream or Mud Pack."

"Creates a youthful feeling, skin soft as silk."

"Why spend money on expensive cosmetics when health and a lovely complexion can be had in a small tube of Mentholum?"

You Make This Test
Soak a towel in hot water and wring it out. Apply it to face for about one minute, to open pores—then massage face with Mentholum for two or three minutes—then repeat hot towel process twice and finish with a cold towel.

Will you write us
When you try a Mentholum Steam drop us a line and tell us frankly what you think of it, truly we are anxious to know. Mentholum is for sale at all Drug Stores, 1 oz. size, 30c.; 3 oz. size, 60c.

Hidden Danger

In all eye faults were visible right handy to where they happen, you'd see four persons in every five wearing Glasses—feeling better, working better, seeing clearer.

Four persons in five need Glasses to improve their sight and correct strain.

Often you can go on straining your eyes for years without knowing it. For a while there may be no symptoms, the extra burden being taken up by reserve sight energy. But once spent, this "surplus of youth" is hard to recover.

The symptoms may be headaches; and quite a few folks are still unaware that headaches mean eyestrain in 19 cases out of 20. They may come in indigestion and jumpy nerves. In fact, the situation is so complicated, no man can judge his own eyes. It will do you a lot of good to have an examination.

BISHOP IS TO LEAVE FOR ROME MONDAY

Father McDermott Also; Father Duke to Start Saturday Presentation by Y.M.C.I.

His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc and the priests of the diocese of Saint John who are going on the Holy Year pilgrimage to Rome will sail from Boston on Tuesday of next week, April 28. They will sail on the steamship Patria and will reach Naples after a voyage of 17 days.

Those who are going, besides His Lordship, are Mgr. Hebert, of Bouchette; Rev. W. M. Duke, of the Cathedral; Rev. J. J. McDermott, of St. John the Baptist church; Rev. D. S. O'Keefe, of St. Andrews; and Rev. M. P. Howland, of Kingsclear. Bishop LeBlanc and Father McDermott will leave for Boston on next Monday. Father Duke will leave the city Saturday and the others will leave their parishes some time during this week.

Father Duke at mass in the Cathedral yesterday and again at a meeting of the Young Men's Catholic Institute spoke of the pilgrimage and mentioned some of the special features of it.

There will be four canonizations while they are in Rome—Blessed Teresa, "The Little Flower," Blessed Mother Barab, Blessed John Eudes and the Cure of Ars, Florence, Milan, Venice, Lourdes, England and Ireland will be visited and the party will sail for home from Belfast on the S. S. Regina on June 19. In Italy, marble quarries will be visited by Bishop LeBlanc and Father Duke and in various cities churches will be inspected in connection with the proposed new altar of the Cathedral here.

At yesterday's meeting of the Y. M. C. I. the president, Joseph P. Coughlan, read an address from the members to Father Duke, who is chaplain of the Institute, and presented a substantial check to him.

In reply, Father Duke spoke of the pilgrimage, of the aims and hopes of the Y. M. C. I. for the betterment of youth and of his interest in them, and said the Institute and its members would be in his prayers while he was at the holy places to be visited.

Short speeches supporting the address were made by present and past members of the executive—Frank I. McCafferty, H. A. Pierce, Richard Sullivan, William Magee and George McDermott.

Indigestion is a miserable thing!

Many a man is the very soul of good humor during a meal, and when he leaves the table he is a first-class grouch.

Indigestion is a miserable thing. It can take the good nature out of anyone.

That was the case here: Both men had eaten very heartily. The one seemed in fine fettle. A cheerful twinkle beamed in his eye as he enjoyed his cigar. But the other wore a long face. He seemed distressed.

"What's the matter?" asked the genial one. "Distressed after your big meal?"

"I nearly always am," he complained. "I wish you'd tell me how you can tuck away a meal like that and still feel all right."

A simple secret

"Ask me something hard," grinned his friend. "It's a simple secret I learned from my grandfather. And I very rarely suffer from indigestion."

"Simply eat a few of these after meals," he went on, fishing out of his pocket a familiar little cylindrical roll of candy. "They sure are Life Savers—just as they call them. Grandad believed in the same principle, only he had his peppermints in a bulky little bag instead of in this convenient, delicious form."

Are you troubled this way?

It's a fact. Life Savers are exactly what they are called for people troubled with indigestion. These delicious little aromatic mints—purest sugar moulded to china-hardness under fourteen tons of pressure and flavored six different ways to suit your taste or fancy—really do relieve distress after eating.

Try them this way after meals and see how much better you feel.—Life Savers, Limited, Prescott, Ont.
