

THE EVENING GAZETTE, SAINT JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, JANUARY 7, 1889.

THE EVENING GAZETTE

Published every evening (Sundays excepted) at No. 1, Water Street, Saint John, N. B.

THE EVENING GAZETTE will be delivered at any house in the cities of St. John and Portland for a month for thirty-five cents. The subscription may be paid at the office, or to any news agent who sells the GAZETTE.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MONDAY, JAN. 7, 1889.

THE VITAL STATISTICS FRUITS

The registrar of births, deaths and marriages for this county, asks the public to believe that during the past year there were 239 marriages, 1,072 deaths, and 633 births in the city and county of St. John. According to this statement the population of St. John county is decreasing at the rate of 438 a year, not by emigration or any such means, but by reason of the number of children born being so much less than the number of deaths. Of course this statement is wholly incredible, for every one knows that there are far more births than deaths in this healthy community. It is probable that during the year 1888 the number of births in the city and county was not less than 1,800, so that about 7,200 births were not registered at all as provided by law. Yet the registrar of vital statistics goes through the solemn form of compiling these statistics and returning them as a true statement of the births, deaths and marriages of St. John County, although he states that during the past six months he has received reports of the deaths of nearly one hundred infants of whose birth he had obtained no report. It is provided by law that the report of a birth is to be made to the registrar by the physician, parent or other person and penalties are fixed for neglect of this duty. These penalties are not enforced, either the law is not obeyed, or the registrar is not obeyed. In England, Scotland and Ireland a registration law has been in existence for many years and it works perfectly. No man whose duty it is to report a birth, death or marriage, ventures to neglect that duty, because he knows that if he does so he will be severely punished. In the United Kingdom laws are made to be obeyed, but here, it would seem, they are only made to be treated with contempt. We trust the attention of the Attorney General to this important matter. We are not present paying the cost of a registration service and we are not getting it. The statistics in present issued are of no value whatever, because every one knows them to be inaccurate. Now, one of two things should be done by the government, either the law should be repealed and the Province relieved of the cost of the service, or the penalties against those who disobey the law should be enforced. If these penalties are not stringent enough, let the law be amended and made perfect, and let every one obey it, and which will be of some value for the purpose of comparison with other countries where vital statistics are collected.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is to be hoped that the people of Halifax will have placed enough to stick to their own boat, in the rate war now being waged on the route between Halifax and Boston. The owners of those two rotten Yankee tubs, the Carrell and Worcester, after taking passengers from Halifax to Boston for $1, while a first class ticket on the Halifax costs $6, and is cheap enough at that. No man who values his life should sail on the Yankee mad scows, even if he got a free passage, for they are not seaworthy, and wholly unfit for service on the rugged coast of Nova Scotia, especially during the winter months.

CRISP CONDENSATIONS

The folk of an egg is good to eat from smooth and clean. Collage that have been smothered in a brown sauce should be washed with cold water.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS

Two Cuts of Tail. It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Two Cuts of Tail

It was in the Hoffman house. "I once owned a cat," said a stranger from the blue grass region, "who lived on corn—not the distilled kind, but regular corn—that is to say, I suppose for a long time that the cat lived in the Hoffman house. I had a cat which I now have sitting in. I had watched her one day and found that she had just taken her first meal and didn't swallow it. I followed her around, and saw a mouse that she went into another yard where there were lots of pigeons and she took the mouse in front of an old water barrel. After she'd got her meal she went to the barrel and drank all right and it was the first meal that she had ever had. She was a cat as was a cat."

Best Cough Cure.

For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, no remedy is so speedy, and certain as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. An infallible family medicine.

"I find Ayer's Cherry Pectoral an invaluable remedy for colds, coughs, and other ailments of the throat and lungs."—M. S. Russell, 204 Broadway, Albany, N. Y.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for bronchitis and Lung Diseases, for which I believe it to be the greatest medicine in the world."—James Miller, Carver, N. C.

"My wife had a distressing cough, with pain in the side and breast. We tried various remedies, but none did her any good until I got a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which she used for the cure."—Robert Horton, Foreman, Haverhill, Mass.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a severe cold which had settled on my lungs. My wife says the Pectoral helps her more than any other medicine she ever used."—Eusebio Clark, St. Liberty, Kansas.

And positively guarantee them to be far Superior to all other Plates, as they are the Very Latest and most improved make. A trial will PROVE all our claims and thoroughly satisfy everyone.

Call and See Plates and Machines.

RUBBER HEADQUARTERS,

AMERICAN RUBBER STORE,

65 Charlotte Street.

1888. FALL AND WINTER GOODS, 1889.

WE are now showing a large and varied assortment of Goods suitable for above seasons in latest London Styles.

STIFF and SOFT FELT HATS,

FALL STYLE SILK HATS,

CLOTH CAPS,

GORDURY CAPS, TWEED CAPS,

PUSH CAPS, ASTRACHAN CAPS,

SEALETTE & Co.,

SCOTCH KNITTED CAPS,

HAVELOCK CAPS,

ALMA CAPS,

PULLMAN CAPS,

T. O. SHANTERS & Co

61 Charlotte Street.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY

OF LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND,

REINSUREMENTS.

The Largest Net Surplus of any Fire Insurance Co. in the World.

J. SIDNEY KAYE,

GENERAL AGENT FOR NEW BRUNSWICK.

Office, No. 8 Pugsley's Building, Saint John, N. B.

ALL KINDS OF SKATES IN STOCK.

ACME SKATES,

LANSDOWNE SKATES,

LONG REACH SKATES,

WOOD TOP SKATES

STRAPPED SKATES.

ICE CREEPERS.

For sale as low as any in the trade.

CLARK, KERR & THORNE,

60 62 Prince William Street.

PLUMBING.

Special and Prompt Attention given to repairs.

Tin and Sheet Iron Work done with neatness and despatch.

A. G. BOWES & Co.,

21 Canterbury Street.

SIMEON JONES

BREWER.

ALE & PORTER IN WOOD & BOTTLE,

Hogsheads, Barrels, Half-Barrels and Kegs,

QUART AND PINT BOTTLES

Livery and Boarding Stables,

Sydney Street, St. John, N. B.

DAVID CONNELL.

Horses Boarded on Reasonable Terms.

Horses and Carriages on Hire. Fine Pit-outs at Short Notice

BEST QUALITY

Family Washing Detergent,

ROUGH DRY,

AT 25c PER DOZ.

At Ungar's Steam Laundry,

32 WATERLOO STREET.