GENERAL BOOTH'S MESSAGE
THROUGH THE GRAPHOPHONE

A Frenchman Who Says That Harry K. Thaw Was for Years a Hypnotic Subject—English People Have Very Bad Manners

LONDON, Feb. 22.—A few days ago the king's motor car when passing Ely ran over and killed a favorite dog belonging to Mr. Arthur Feast, of Ely.

The matter having been brought to the attention of his majesty the following letter has been received from Sir Dighton Probyn by Mr. G. M. Hall, coroner of Ely, which I shall feel obliged by your kindly giving to Mr. Arthur Feast by way of compensation to him and his wife for the loss of their little terrier.

"The meeting of the coronial conference on April 15 next, will mark the beginning of one of the most critical periods in the history of the British Empire.

"The arrangements for the conference are now far advanced. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, any reason to believe will preside at any rate at the opening meeting, and the secretary of the mother country, Lord Elgin, as secretary of state for the colonies, will be present throughout the conference, while the secretary of state for war, the first lord of the admiralty, and the president of the Board of Trade will attend when particular questions in which they are interested are under discussion.

"General Booth at the age of seventy-nine has spoken an epitome of the work of the Salvation Army into a little cylinder and it comes out full of the personality, vitality and fervor of the General.

"It took us twelve months to get the General to talk us this graphophone record, but it is worth it," said the manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company. He held back because he was afraid that the record of his voice would not come out well. Now he is delighted with it.

"When the machine is set going the familiar tones of General Booth which have moved men and women in all parts of the world, come out strongly and clearly.

"I am glad they are enjoying themselves," came the General's voice. "The Salvationist is the friend of happiness. But amidst all your joys don't forget the sons and daughters of misery."

He then takes the hearer with a touching word-picture through haunts of suffering and poverty.

"Brought it all on themselves, do you say? Perhaps so, but does that excuse our not assisting them? You don't demand a certificate of virtue before you drag a drowning creature out of the water, nor the assurance that a man has paid his rent before you deliver him from a burning building."

"The South Wales Echo," of Cardiff, publishes a remarkable story told by a man who asserts that for five years until October, 1905, he was valet and confidential servant to the late Harry Thaw. The man's name is James Morley and he is a Scandinavian by birth. He asserts that he is in possession of evidence which if given would have had an important bearing upon the case. His employer was, he says, on friendly terms with a certain Frenchman who used to hypnotize Mr. Thaw, at first for diversion and afterwards of set purpose. Ultimately the Frenchman had complete and unbounded hypnotic power over Mr. Thaw.

Mr. Stanford White, the murdered architect, quarrelled with the Frenchman over an actress, Mr. White accused the Frenchman of being an impostor, masquerading under a bogus title. This aroused the Frenchman's bitter hate and Morley says he holds letters proving the murderous passion which the foreigner harbored against Mr. White.

Morley declares that Mr. Thaw was the unconscious tool of the Frenchman and committed the murder under hypnotic influence.

Mr. Lloyd George, despite the fact that he is an ardent Free Trader, has announced during the course of an interview that he intends to introduce a bill which will be a good measure of protection for foreigners apply for patents in this country in the course of a year," he said. "I do not object to that, but they use them for the purpose of preventing any one from setting up an industry or utilizing that patent in this country. That I consider to be an intolerable abuse of the privilege conferred upon them."

"I would confer the privilege upon foreigners if they would use it on British soil and I would say to them: 'If you are coming and if you seek protection and special protection from the laws of our country it must be for the benefit of the country that confers that protection.' I would give them patents in this country but I would compel them to work here."

"I hope to introduce a bill next session for the purpose of simplifying that process."

Mr. Lloyd-George added that he would approach business problems from a purely non-party standpoint, and he would expect criticism in the same spirit.

If on the fiscal question he found he was wrong the sooner he was put right the better. He was going to get the facts and if they went against his theory the sooner it was smashed the better.

He also announced that the Board of Trade was about to strengthen its intelligence department, and the consular service was to be made more useful, and that special investigations were being made into the industries of foreign countries.

"A written in 'The Nineteenth Century' has declared that the manners of Englishmen and English women are in a rapid state of decay. Says the writer:—

"The well-bred Englishman has been the best manner in the world when he chooses; he could not possibly be bad-mannered, but he is becoming so informal that he is coming to be regarded as a person who has the 'slipped ease' of the smoking room for the comparatively strict decorum of the drawing room."

"When that day dawns doubtless women will make things easy for him by joining him in the smoking room if she has not already done so."

"The growing cult of the informal is proved by the conversation of the present day."

VOLTAIRE AND ROUSSEAU WERE STILL IN THEIR COFFINS

Monuments to Them Have Been Ordered by the French Government.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Orders for monuments of Voltaire and Jean Jacques Rousseau have been given by the Government to MM. Sagoff and Bartholome. Some little time ago special visits were paid to the crypt with a view to ascertaining whether the remains were really in the coffins as it had been, it being contended by some that that had been thrown to the winds after the "Great Jour." They were found when the coffins were opened. Those of Voltaire were reduced to a skeleton, but Rousseau's had remained intact, that his features looked as if he was sleeping. But a few minutes afterwards the tissues were reduced to powder through contact with the air, leaving only a skeleton like that of Voltaire.

REAR END COLLISION.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—A rear end collision between two freight trains on the G. T. R. near St. Lambert, between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, caused some delay to traffic. Both trains were south bound and the first was standing on a curve when the second train crashed into the rear, sending the van and two freight cars into kindling wood. Both train crews escaped without injury.

WEST INDIAN NEGROES.
The West Indian negro is a born poacher. He catches the quail by the cruel expedient of strewing finely powdered cayenne or bird pepper in the little dust pits where the birds "wash."

The burning powder gets into the eyes of the birds, which, confused and helpless are thus easily caught. When he wants a wholesale supply of fish he explodes a piece of dynamite, which was probably intended for the making of new government roads, over a hole in a mountain stream, and the fish are killed by the concussion. But his favorite resource is the bark of the dogwood tree. This he drops into a river hole, and the mullet, intoxicated, comes to the surface of the water. This singular property of the dogwood has caused it to be employed as a narcotic.

NOTED THE SYMPTOM.

A little girl went for the first time to church with her mother. All went well during the service, but the child grew uneasy during the sermon, which was a long one. The mother tried every way to keep the child quiet, but in vain. Finally the child observed that the preacher had a pompous way of paragraph or head. Just as the mother was assuring the child that the preacher would soon stop, he did—for another short—and the tired child burst out on her mother's assurance, "No, he won't; he's swelling up again."
