THE MAN WITH THE LOAD.

The following striking adaptation of "The Man with the Hoe," Edward Markham's poem, that has so forcibly voiced the message of Millet's painting appears in the Chicago Times-Herald. The author is Mr. E. S. Kiser.

Bowed by a weight of fiery stuff he leans Against the hitching-post and gazes round!

Who made him dull to shame and dead to pride,
A thing that cares not and that never thinks,
Filthy, profane, a consort for the pig?
Who loosened and led down that stubby jaw?

Whence came the scum adhering to those lips?
What was it clogged and burned away his brain?

Is this the thing the Lord God made and gave
To have dominion over sea and land;
To love and to be loved; to propagate
And feel the passion of eternity?

Is this the dream he dreamed who shaped the suns
And pillared the blue firmament with light?
Down all the stretch of hell to its last self

There is no shape more hideous than this—
More tongued with proof that Darwin didn't know—
For where in all the world of brutish beasts,
Is one from which this monster might have come?

His blood flows in the frail, disfigured babe,
O'er which the pale, heart broken mother bends.
But what to him are those hot tears she sheds?

What cause he for the taunts his children bear?
The hungry cries they raise, their twisted limbs?

Through this dread shape, the devil boldly looks;
And in that real presence mocks the world.

Through this dread shape humanity is shamed,
Profaned, outraged, dragged down and brought to scorn;
Made to inhale fumes from the slime he spews

And hear him just at virtue and at God.
Oh masters, lords, and rulers in our land,
Must this foul solesism still
Be tolerated in an age when men
Glean power from the dream of a second air,

And speak through space across the rearing gulfs;
Must this vile thing be left to wed at will,
And propagate his idiotic spawn
A shame upon the age in which we live,
A curse on generations to be born?

Oh masters, lords, and rulers in our land
How may ye hope to reckon with this "man"?

How get along without the vote he casts
When there are public offices to fill?
How will it be with candidates when he
No longer hangs upon the reeking bar,
Prepared to fight, to stab, to murder and
To vote for him who furnishes his drinks?

ALCOHOL AS FOOD.

A physicist could experiment with gun-powder and prove that it is easily oxidized and gives rise to a large amount of heat and energy. From this it might be argued that gun powder is a most useful kind of fuel for cooking stoves; such a conclusion would be hardly less logical than the conclusions that have been drawn from these experiments with alcohol, and which regard it as a useful food for the body. Gun powder is a very unsafe fuel because of its secondary effects, and in the same way the food value of alcohol cannot be determined by its power of being oxidized, but must include the consideration of its secondary effects as well. To show how misleading such a conclusion may be, we may notice a single aspect of this question. Alcohol is oxidized in the body and gives rise to heat. Moreover, the use of alcohol, as is well known, produces a flush of the skin and a feeling of warmth. These two facts will convince most people that alcohol it a heat-producer. But when looked at more closely the question is not so clear. The flush of the skin is due to the action of alcohol upon the nervous system, which causes a dilatation of the blood vessels in the skin. This dilatation causes the blood to rush rapidly through the skin, giving a sense of warmth, to the end organs located in the skin. But at the same time the blood as it rushes rapidly through the skin, is cooled by the radiation of heat, this method being, indeed, that which the body uses to reduce its heat. It is like opening the windows of a warm room to let the heat out. The opening of the window does not warm the room, even though a person seated just outside might feel more heat coming from the room, and hence—think it was warmer. Now the flushing of the skin which follows alcoholic drinking signifies the opening of the window due to the partial par-

A Rare Chance for Business.

Owing to ill health I have decided to sell my interest in the Mill at Gagetown Wharf. The building was intended for a grist mill in the upper story, the Rotary and Belts are the best. A 48 inch inserted South Saw, only a few feet from the Public Wharf.

There is also in position for work a Maple Leaf Grinder which has only been used a few weeks.

For further particulars inquire or write to R. DEB. SCOTT, Gagetown, N. B.

1899 Monoton Woolen Mills 1899.

I wish to inform my customers and the public generally that I will have the pleasure of again calling on them with a full assortment of goods from the above Mills, consisting of:

YARNS, FLANNELS, BLANKETINGS, SHIRTINGS, BLANKETINGS, DRESS GOODS, RUGGINGS, HOMESPUNS, TWEEDS, OVERCOATINGS, ETC., ETC.

The highest recommendation for these goods and the best proof of their adaptability to the consumer is that each season finds them in greater demand. Thus adding new customers and increasing my sales which last year was ahead of all previous years, and now with new ranges of the latest colorings and designs and the generous co-operation of the public I hope to make this the banner year. Thanking you for your liberal patronage in the past and soliciting a continuance for the present year, I am,
