ces of immediate requirements." The feeling is that of confidence, as it was thought that the que in the States could not long keep prices ove their natural level, and English prices would ract supplies from all quarters. The quantity of test affost for the United Kingdom on the 24th st. was 2,250,000 qrs., but we are without any key advices by mail than at our last. The trade purpose, however, show the total imports of wheat all flour from Sept. 1st to Ngv. 30th to have been the corresponding period of the perions harvest year; while home deliveries in the while kingdom are computed to have been 1,655,000 quarters, against 2,250,500 quarters and the corresponding period of the season. These figures give a total supply since the opening of the harvest-year of 7,01,500 quarters against 7,011,000 in the corresponding period of the preceding harvest year. These supplies are constituently above the average consumption, and there can be little doubt that the arrival of the Californian feet will increase them. LAUSE OF THE TAY BRIDGE DISASTER

Christmas with the Nobility of England.

SAUSPICIOES OPESIAS OF THE NEW YEAR.

Rumour is busy with the prospects of the new Duke of Portland. The young guardsman, with his 21 years, and his income of $150,000, is the best parti in the county; but he is said to be already engaged to Miss Violet Lindsay, who is the daughter of Col. Lindsay, formerly M.P. for Abingdon, and now one of the Queen's grooms in waiting, and granddaughter of the Earl of Crawford. The Lindsays stand high in the Queen's favour. None of the Scotch nobility, except the Campbells' stand so near to the throne. The news that one of the family, a pretty girl of 20, is to wed the new Lord of Welbeck Abbey will be as gladly received at Windsor as by society at large.

Christmas with the Nobility.

sudden that of the last three days the sudden hope among the huntsmen, but the cold last night nipped them off untimely. Mr. Girard Lee has led the round of theatricals at Luton Hoo. Lady Rosslyn has opened the county ball season, and for the delight of the children who are spending their holidays in town, the Lady Mayoress is issuing invitations for a juvenile fancy dress ball on the 15th.

A WEEK OF LITERARY SENSATIONS.

Cornhill appears this month with a rather sensational article on the Laureate, called "A new Study of Tennyson." It is probably from the pen of the Editor, Mr. Leslie Stephen, and reflects the more credit on his impartiality, because a warm friendship exists betwen the Stephens and the Tennysons. The poet is roundly charged with plagiarism. But the literary sensation of the week is the appearance of the "Metternich Memoirs," published by Bentley on Wednesday last. "Charles Dickens' Memoirs" are entering upon their third edition. Mrs. Lynn Linton, whose last novel, "Under which Lord," has been furiously assailed by the Reviews, led by the Saturday, to which she contributed some of her most brilliant articles, including "The Girl of the Period," which created such a stir in society circles, nearly a dozen years ago, begins a new serial story in the current number of Temple Bar, called "The Rebel of the Family." The first English edition of Mms. De Remusat's Memoirs has been issued this week from the house of SampsonL ow, Son and Marston. A WEEK OF LITERARY SENSATIONS.

The Grosvenor Gallery opened on New Year's Day with a brilliant display of pictures. The private view was held on the day previous. The death of Henry Warren is announced this morning. He was a painter of the old school, born in the last century, and educated in sculpture by Nollekens, the miser, and favourite of George III. Warren and his son were both members of the Water Colours Institute, and the works of the latter have attained some little fame. Henry Warren was long President of the Institute, and was its henorary president when he died. Some of his earlier works were much esteemed, but the present generation has forgotten him.

WAGNER AT THE POINT OF DEATH.

The latest despatches from Bayreuth DEATH OF A PUPIL OF NOLLEKENS.

The latest despatches from Bayreuth anounce that Herr Richard Wagner's life a despaired of. In the little Bavarian illage, where Jean Paul Richter is buried he great German musician lies dying, ince the fall he has been forced to discontinue the walks that he used to make to be funtaisie, with his two big dogs being the funtaisie, with his two big dogs being the funtaisie of weakness have long been withle on his face and figure. Lately system has set in. His wife and five hildren have been tending him with the timest tenderness. The Villa Wahnfried as been closed to visitors. Yesterday it as made known that the disease had eached a critical stage. It is possible hat the composer's strength of constitution may save him, but at present there is title hope, and a sudden cloud has passed for the musical world.

theatres are doing a lively business are Christman pantomimes, mounted gorgoous fashion, are drawing, as very large audiences of children, old and young. Fortunately, the and the ballet dancers are not the dramatic attractions. Bronsdon d's play, "The Old Love and The which is the English title for "The 's Daughter," is having a mostiful run. Tennyson's new play. THINGS THEATRICAL,
