QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S REPLY.

I am commanded by Queen Alexandra to thank you for the copy of the Annual Report of the Church of England Orphanage of St. John's, New-foundland, and other literature, regarding the establishment of a King Edward Reserve Fund, as memorial of his late Majesty, which you have been good enough to send her.

Queen Alexandra hears with much interest of the good and charitable work of the Institution, and of its prosperous and satisfactory condition and Her Majesty sincerely hopes that your Management will be in a posi-tion before long to carry out their proposals, which have Her Majesty's sympathetic approval. Yours faithfully, HENRY STREATFIELD,

"Belle of Richmond"

BRINGS LARGE AUDIENCE. Several years ago the Robinson Co staged the "Belle of Richmond" in St ohn's and gave it an admirable ren ition, but never have we seen this retty Southern drama delineated ith such expression or the varie oles so skilfully manipulated. A he play progresses and the plot un olds itself, the interest of the spec ator increases so that at the happ nale he is delighted and the applaus ccorded is hearty and comes from he witnesses of the performance pontaneously. Last night the versale Maisie Cecil handled the title role such a manner that she has rengthened the enviable position ne holds in the estimation of St. ohn's theatre goers. Harden Clarke s "Jerry," an admirer of the "Belle," nd eventually a successful one, dis-layed his ability to advantage in the ole, while Mr. Schreiber was in good orm as "Bill," another ardent swain ho sought the hand of the heroine. rank Urban inimitably portrayed th character of "Judge Mason," and Billy Webb that of a sport who sought and btained revenge for a great wrong one him. Messrs. Levy, Kennet endexter and Field played import nt roles with accuracy, skill and apression, and Misses Hunt, Hodg-ins and Leith deported themselves an admirable way. The specials were attractive and elicite ounds of applause. Klark, Urbar, and Schrieber's selections on the haltaphone, cow bells and band in-truments were sweetly rendered, while Mr. Urban's drolleries kept all n's singing and Baretto's tight rope valking were highly appreciated, bu morous and giddy spinster of unertain age.
