Respectable Thieves.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Miss Cameron.

The nearest dressmaker lady, who is usually a most cheerful person, arrived at our house yesterday looking decidedly disturbed.

"What makes me look so blue?" in answer to my query. "Oh, nothing. Yes, I will tell you, Miss Cameron. The postman gave me this letter on my way down here."

And the dressmaker lady drew a little square envelope from her handbag, pulled out a dainty correspondence card, and read:

"My Dear Miss L—: I am SO sorry to tell you that I am taking a most unexpected trip with my husband and so cannot have you this week, as we planned. Will you let me know if you can let me have those three days some time next month?"

"Trusting that you and your mother are well and that this will not inconvenience you too greatly, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"Those three days, Miss Cameron, are to-morrow, the next day and the day after. It is too late, of course, for me to go anywhere else and that means a dead loss of nine dollars.

"I wouldn't mind so much if I had only myself to support, but you know I have mother to look after, and if I work every day in the week that's only eighteen dollars, and that's none too much when you consider dull seasons and sickness to be saved up for."

The woman who wrote that letter, as I happened to know, is a very well-to-do woman. One would hardly expect her to give up the trip with her husband because the dress-maker was engaged, but surely she might have paid at least part of the amount she must have known the dressmaker would lose.

"Why don't you insist that she pay you some of that money?" I asked. "Oh, if I did that I'd lose her custom, and I can't afford to do that. She often takes twelve or fifteen days a year," answered the dressmaker. "No, I can't do anything. I have to reckon just so much loss that way every year."

I suppose that woman would be most indignant if she heard herself called "dishonorable."

And yet, I think she comes pretty close to being that.

And not only she but all the women who carelessly cancel engagements of this sort at the eleventh hour.

Our shampoo lady says she is actually considering giving up her telephone just to ward off the people who casually call up a day or a few hours before their appointment and say: "They are so sorry, but—"

Of course, there are times when it is impossible to meet such engagements, but if one had to pay when one failed to keep them I fancy such impossibilities would be very much rarer.

You would be horrified at the thought of stealing seventy-five cents from your shampooist, or two or three dollars from your dressmaker, wouldn't you?

And yet when you cancel an engagement in this way, what else are you doing?

Why Have "Nerves?"

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulse lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame. In ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. It is a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicine extracted of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

Mrs. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my greatest enemy and I was getting very bad. Then I bought Dr. Pierce's medicine, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Dr. Pierce's wonderful medicines."

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at Topsail on Tuesday afternoon, the contracting parties being Miss Ellen Marion Miller, second daughter of Mr. Joseph Miller, of the Anglo-American Telegraph Co., and Mr. Will H. Strong, of Messrs. A. Goodridge & Sons, and eldest son of Capt. W. Strong. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Nurse at the Methodist Church, which was very prettily decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Nurse, assisted by the young ladies of the church. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March, and looked charming in a gown of cream delectable satin, with veil and orange blossoms carried in a bouquet of white carnations and ferns, and was assisted by Misses Jennie and Phoebe Miller, sisters of the bride, and Miss G. Strong, sister of the groom. The bridesmaids wore dresses of white bristone net over butterfly, with hats to match, and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations and ferns; while the Misses, Bessie Williams and Phyllis Cousins, who wore dresses of white silk, carrying baskets of flowers, looked very pretty as flower girls. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. C. S. Strong; Mr. E. Taylor and Mr. A. S. Butler. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where a very enjoyable time was spent, after which the happy couple left for Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent. Both bride and groom were the recipients of many valuable presents, including a cheque from the firm of Messrs. A. Goodridge & Sons, also a silver service from the employees.

Wedded in Boston, Mass.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir: Please publish the following wedding announcement: A very pretty but quiet wedding took place at the Church of the Bless-Sacrament, Jamaica Plain, Mass., on Sunday evening, June 30th, when Mr. Thomas J. Babcock, son of Martin Babcock, of Briggs South, and Miss Mary Sutton, daughter of Richard Sutton, of Tremassey, were united. The bride looked handsome in a gown of white satin, with veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bride was attended by Miss Bessie "Tapper," of Torbay, and Miss Maud Babcock, sister of the groom, who also looked charming in dresses of blue silk with black picture hats. Each carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. Mr. Peter Ryan, of St. John's, acted as best man. After the ceremony the happy couple returned to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Ryley, cousins of the bride, where a sumptuous supper was served to a large gathering of friends. The ceremony was impressive and picturesque as the happy couple were being united before the High Altar of the little church. The sun sinking in the golden west shone forth in all its splendor and illuminated the surroundings magnificently and still the air with a feeling of happiness equal to the occasion. After many toasts were given and the health of the bride and groom drunk, Mr. McGrath, of St. John's, who was on a visit to Boston, closed the evening's reception with a lengthy speech and happy wishes for the future. The young couple were then driven to Boston by Mr. Maurice Devine in his auto, where they took the midnight train for New York. From there they will terminate their honeymoon visiting friends and relatives in their native home. The bride was the recipient of many costly and useful presents, out glass, silver, etc. Respectfully,
A SPECTATOR.

RELIEVED HER RHEUMATISM

She's Glad She Picked Up a Sample Bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment.

Mrs. R. Meid, Sr., an Auburn, Ont. lady, tells this interesting story of how she conquered her ancient enemy, Rheumatism.

"I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism for a great many years. I have used different medicines but they have never done me much good. "We picked up a sample bottle of your Liniment at our gate and I used it, and to my surprise it relieved me wonderfully. We secured two bottles from our store-keeper and I must tell you it relieved the pain, and I would not be without it now."

It is hard to understand how Douglas' Egyptian Liniment can so quickly and so surely relieve the most torturing pains of man or beast. But it can and does do it, where other remedies utterly fail.

The Linotyper.

Selecting language riper than language needs to be, we roast the Linotyper from Cleveland to K. C. We daily place before him our badly written bits, with curly-eyes that bore him and throw him into fits; with blot, erasures, splashes and sprawling chicken-treads, until the poor man thrashes his intellect to shreds, in efforts to determine what tongue it's written in, and whether it's a sermon, a poem or bulletin. And we, who do the catering, and the errors made. "That heartless, lap-eared viper, that sacrilegious sot, the sway-backed Linotyper, has spoiled my Gem of Thought! Oh, bring me hither, prithee, a cauldron full of oil, and by the village smithy I'll cook that son of toil! Or bring me rusty fetters—I'll make his bosom bleed who never learned his letters and yet pretends to read!" The patient Linotyper is tolling by me now, his old bandana wiped fastened about his brow; he's bent low or yawny, he doesn't tear his hair, although his bunch of copy would cause a saint to swear; and those who knock his errors and say he could be whipped, should see the growsome terror in his bughouse manuscript! If you who write a story intended for the press, write copy hunky-dory, you'd sidestep much distress.

Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful.

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy the Pest Dandruff. That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in ten days, or money back. The manufacturer guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. A large generous bottle costs only 50c. at leading druggists everywhere. The word "SALVIA" is on every bottle.

Still At It.

Despite the warning given in the Telegram of the danger of indiscriminate firing from rifles on the part of boys going in the country, the practice is still kept up each evening after tea. This is particularly so in the neighbourhood of Mundy Pond, where boys fire bullets from revolvers and rifles at targets set up near the road. Many people walk in this way for a breath of country air and on several occasions bullets have sped dangerously near them. No doubt if this matter is brought to the notice of I. G. Sullivan he will take prompt steps not alone to stop such dangerous sport, but to punish the offenders.

Football Match.

The B. I. S. and Casuals played a fairly exciting game on St. George's Field last evening, the former winning by 3 goals to 2. The game was a tie up to the last few minutes. Although the weather was ideal there was a small gathering of spectators. In the first half the Casuals kicked down field and scored two goals to their opponents' nil. On changing ends the B. I. S. played harder, equalized and then sent in the winning goal. It now looks as if the Casuals will be the holders of the wooden spoon for 1912, as every other team has won a game except them.

Morison Scandal

AND THE GOVERNOR'S VERDICT.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—Since the Evening Telegram of the 23rd June reached here containing your words of wisdom on the Morison scandal and the Governor's verdict, the people have been anxiously looking out for further news respecting this shameful travesty on justice. The Governor's verdict, as published over his own signature is read as declaring that in this ancient dependency of King George there is one interpretation of the law for the men who the people elected as their representatives in the Government, and another interpretation of the law for the poor fishermen who were duped into returning them to power.

This view of the case is brought home to us by the fact that early in April two poor men, our near neighbours, were summoned before Magistrate Lilly of Trinity and fined twenty dollars each, or to go to prison for forty days, for killing a deer or two for food for their families. These poor hard-working fellows pleaded, like Morison, ignorance of the law. They thought that a poor settler could kill a deer for the use of his family at any time, but the Magistrate would not accept their plea of ignorance or forgetfulness of the law and they had to pay the forty dollars or go to prison. The loss of that money to these poor men meant more to them than the loss of salary would have meant to Minister of Justice Morison. But they have had to suffer for the ignorance of the law while Minister of Justice Morison goes clear, with a certificate of character from the Governor in the bargain. If the plea of ignorance or forgetfulness of the law is good in the case of a Minister of Justice and an ex-judge, should it not be good in the case of these poor fishermen? I have been informed that it is in the power of the Governor to remit fines. That being so, if he acts with justice and impartiality as the representative of our King should he not remit the fines imposed on the two poor men I refer to? He has established a precedent in Morison's case which, if he is a just man, he must either pursue in all cases of alleged ignorance or condemn himself by not doing so.

The Governor in his letter published says he was staggered by Morison's ignorance of the law, but the public are not so much staggered by that as by the Governor's verdict. Two men are badly needed in power in this country to-day—a man like Sir Herbert Murray as Governor, and a man like Sir Robert Bond as Premier; two men who ever saw their duty, and did it.

Yours truly,
AN OUTPORT MAN.
Larenville, July 9th, 1912.

REVISITS HIS HOME.

By the express to-day there arrived an old St. John's man in the person of Mr. Edward Murphy, of the Topsail Road, who is visiting his friends here after an absence of 42 years. He went away to Canada with the gang known as "Sica's gang," and after a couple of years settled in Canton, Mass., where he has been working 40 years with one firm.

Man Mastered

By His Business

When a man cannot forget his business when he lays his head on the pillow at night, it is time to consider the condition of his nervous system. Otherwise his business will wreck his future by undermining his health.

For a time he may keep going on stimulants, but if health is to be restored and old-time vigor brought back the nerve cells must be revitalized by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

A few weeks' use of this great food cure will do wonders for any business man or woman whose nervous system has failed to stand the strain. Gradually and naturally the blood is enriched and vigor and energy are restored to mind and body. Appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, you sleep well and regain the strength which makes you master of yourself and of your business.
