New Novel by a New Writer.

The Money Pot by Countess Baryne-sk is a story of the stage, and perhaps have the expectations and disappointments of the aspirant or successful stage career become naturally described. Two girls, Maggie and Lexie, hold the interest throughout. They are excellently contrasted. Maggie, the daughter of an actor, having been associated with the stage from her earliest childhood and influenced by its freedom, magnificence has been brought up in refinement and wants a career for the use of her talent. It is not too much to say that Maggie, the lovable and loving girl who, with all her worldly wisdom, falls a prey to the man who adores her fancy, is a triumph of characterization. Natural and human is the heart of the book; but hardly interesting is Lexie's stubborn fight with its happy ending and many intimate pictures of the life of a chorus girl. The whole story is true. Paper, 65c; Cloth, 90c.

Low price inducements, unless coupled with reliability and sterling worth, are of little interest to the prudent buyer; but offerings in standard grade articles priced on a bargain basis—as quoted here—are extremely gratifying.
Careful observance of this important business truth is mainly responsible for the high reputation now enjoyed by this Store.

BIRTHDAYS.

A birthday is a solemn thing; a fellow realizes then, how speedily the days take wing, the days
that do not come again. A little grayer than last year, a little slower in my gait, I feel the dump is drawing near, and still I keep my smile on straight. A little failure of my sight; a bit more deafness in my ears; a few more aches —but that's all right! I would not stop the scudding years. My bald spot is a bit more wide, my muscles grows a trifle slack; I have more stitches in my side, a few more cricks are in my back. But yonder vault of azure bends above no glad-der heart than mine, for all about me there are friends, who keep an old gent feeling fine. Their kind words make my bosom swell, and fill my pe-bald eyes with tears; they tell me I am looking well, and hope I'll live a hundred years. A few more symptoms of the gout have vainly tried to kill my joy; a few more teeth have fallen out, but I'm as happy as a boy.

What Are You
Doing for That Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."
Zylex, 50c. a box; Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.
