Sergeant George Dick.

We have little to add this week to what was said last week about the death of this brave young fellow, through wounds received on 2nd July in the forward movement by the British troops. Sergt Dick was over four years in Newfoundland, where he was employed with Messrs. Ellis & Co., St. John's. He joined the Newfoundland contingent in the beginning of January last year. After coming over to this country with the contingent for training he left Aldershot for the East in August last. Some of his chums who were present at his funeral came through the severe fighting of November last at the Dardanelles along with him. He was afterwards sent to the Force on the Western front, where he received the wounds that caused his death on the 12th. The news of his death was sent to his father by telegram from London, as he had been removed to a military hospital there, and was confirmed the next day by an official letter.

Military Funeral.
The remains of Sergt Dick were brought to Largs from the hospital in London where he died, on Saturday, and interred in Larga Cemetery with military honours. There was no firing party, but a squad of deceased's comrades of the Newfoundland Contingent from their headquarters in this country at Ayr attended, and formed the guard of honour. A number of Largs soldiers on furlough from various units, including one representative from Australia, were present, while the 128th Glasgow Company of the Boys' Brigade, who had arrived the previous night for the purpose of holding a "holiday camp" in the Masonic Temple, attended in full strength, under Capt. Burnie. The 1st Larga Company, under Capt. A. Simpson were also represented, while the Boy Scouts, under Scout-Master Murray, had a good muster. The local Volunteer Training Corps, under Commandant Bryce Barr, made a creditable turn-out, and there was a good attendance of the general public. The funeral aroused a great deal of interest among townspeople and visitors alike, and there was a very large crowd of sight-seers at the station and at the cemetery.

Duckworth Street and Military Road.

When the procession, which was imposing and impressive, reached the vicinity of the cemetery, the pipers played "The Flowers of the Forest." The service at the grave was conducted by Mr. Oswald, and when the coffin had been lowered the buglers of the Boy Scouts sounded "The Last Post" with good effect. The filling up of the grave concluded the observances, which were of peculiarly sad interest. Sergt Dick is only the second of the numerous Largs victims of the war whose remains have been laid to rest in the cemetery of their native place. The pipe band, it should be mentioned, only comprised one piper and two drummers of the Boys' Brigade band—it was a busy Saturday, and these were the only available members, Maj. Pige-Majon Dineart, Gt. Capt. was there also, and he had got the assistance of Mr. Thomson, a visitor who plays the national instrument. These two made up for a good many boys, and the band was entirely adequate. The procession marched back to town in much the same order as it had marched out.

A beautiful wreath which lay on the coffin was sent by Nfld. War Association, also three beautiful wreaths from officers, sergeants and men of 2nd battalion 1st Newfoundlanders at Ayr. It bore a card on which were these words:—"In sincere admiration and regret for a soldier who fought the good fight for his country's sake, and died in his service."—The Largs and Millport Weekly News, Saturday, July 22, 1916.

THE DOUGHNUT.

The doughnut is a round hole entirely surrounded by indigestion. The origin of the doughnut has never been solved by our scientific investigators, but it is known to be a very ancient weapon. "Plutarch's Lives" relates that on one occasion an attempt was made to assassinate the Emperor Nero by proffering him a poisoned doughnut, over which pulverized sugar had been sprinkled, but that after being operated on with several raw eggs in rapid sequence his life was saved. If fresh eggs had been as hard to obtain then as they are now, the Roman Empire would have been better off, for Nero is generally conceded to have been one of the coarsest emperors then doing business on the continent of Europe. The doughnut, however, has some admirable qualities. In the first place, it is a hardy excuse for food, and can be put on the table for several weeks hand running without losing its youthful contour of dyspeptic ardor. It is a melancholy sight to see a discouraged boarding-house keeper pass a plate of delectable doughnuts around the table, week after week, without awakening the slightest interest in those present, then carefully dusting them off and laying them away for another trip. There are said to be still in existence doughnuts, which came over in the "Mayflower" and which retain to a marked degree their peachlike bloom and death-dealing contents. It will always remain a mystery why the makers of the rubber tire do not adopt the formula used in laying up a batch of doughnuts, and thus do away forever with the stinging puncture and the profanity-breeding blow-out.

The lowest and most deadly form of doughnut known to the human race is the brand served at the railroad eating house and eaten with sad misgivings by travelling men who have lost their rest for life. This doughnut is composed of three parts Portland cement and one part sudden death, and is followed almost immediately by a sharp toothache in the stomach and a murderous desire to meet the owner of the eating house in some retired spot. Why do the railroads prohibit their patrons from drinking some sparkling form of patent medicine on the trains, and at the same time compel them to associate in an intimate and remorseful manner with the concrete doughnut?

The only doughnut which can give general and lasting satisfaction to the greatest number of people is one which consists entirely of hole.

AT THE CRESCENT.
To-day's variety programme at the Crescent Picture Palace is a top-notch, the famous Essanay stars—Edna Mayo and Darwin Karr, are featured in "A Bit of Lace," a powerful dramatic feature produced in three reels. "The Black Eagle" is a stirring border drama by the Edison Company with Margaret Prussing and Richard Tucker. "The Cold Feet Gateway" is a clever Vitagraph comedy containing a laugh in every foot of it; Harry Fisher and Albert Rocard are the fun makers. Professor McCarthy plays the latest New York musical successes including "Tendre Amour," "The Waltz We Love," "La Saison des Roses" and several others.

Fishery Report.

Received at Board of Trade:—
Aug. 12th. From T. Hogan, (Carbonear to Crocker's Cove). The total catch is 1,290 quintals. There was no fishing done part of the week, and the traps have been taken up. Squid is fairly plentiful, but prospects are not very good. The men are now getting ready for trawling.
Aug. 12th. From V. Ward, (Mosquito Point to Bryan's Cove). Twenty-seven dories, skiffs and boats are fishing, and the catch to date is 6,336 quintals, but nothing was done the last week owing to stormy weather making it impossible for the boats to go on the grounds. Squid is scarce, and prospects are poor.
Aug. 12th. From A. J. Hoffe, (Change Islands). Two schrs., the Togo and Annie B., with 200 and 300 quintals, respectively, have returned from the Straits. Prospects are poor, but some boats get from ½ to 1 mt. daily. There is sufficient herring for bait, and some squid, but the supply of the latter is uncertain. The total catch is 2900 quintals, with 500 for hind-week. Stormy weather is hindering operations.
Aug. 12th. From J. White, (Colinet Island to Head of Salmonier). The latest arrivals from the grounds report that owing to the rough weather and scarcity of bait it is hard to do much with the cod. Prospects are fairly good, but there is not much bait of any kind. Fifty dories and 50 boats are fishing, and the catch is 6,400 quintals, with 1,200 for last week.
We have excellent photographs of Capt. Father Nangle (N.F.L.D. Regiment) for sale at 50c., $1.00, $1.50. Outport orders receive every attention. J. C. PARSONS, Bank of Montreal Building, St. John's, Nfld. Jy20,00d.1f
