Prophecies of Conditions in 1921.

R. H. MacDonald, of Binghamton N.Y., son of Dr. Jeremiah MacDonald formerly well known for his predictions of weather, etc., makes the following predictions for the coming year:

The year 1921 will be ruled by Mercury, a doubtful planet in many ways. Whereas, storehouses are filled with manufactured articles that must be sold—it stands to reason price will gradually decrease. Capital and Labor will have many disputes—some are never satisfied. A person should not try to overdo. Live and let live. High prices are for good times—Low prices are for poor times. A majority of the people are earning and spending more than ever before. Prices are regulated according to the price of iron and pork. Wheat and iron and pork are high, wages and commodities will be high and vice versa.

The weather for 1921 will be somewhat disagreeable from a general viewpoint. January and February will be changeable. The spring will be inclined to be dry, cold and unseasonable. Plant accordingly. The summer will be wet—which will benefit those living in locations with very little rainfall. In some localities, heavy and grain will not unless given proper attention. The fall will be wet with early frosts. Be prepared for such weather and gather crops carefully. The winter will be one of plenty of snow and ice which is good for the soil.

Fruit will vary—in certain localities some kinds will be abundant, in others somewhat of a failure unless given special attention. Grapes will be doubtful—it will be an off year—which will give the vines a rest. Nature knows best. Mice will be very numerous. Better feed a cat than mice. Worms scarce, consequently, fish will be scarce and poor in quality. Disease of all kinds will cure, but slowly. Contagious diseases will occur, but not alarmingly. An epidemic will prevail in cattle, sheep and hogs, but will be soon overcome by government service and restrictions. Furthermore, 1921 will be known as the Chemical Year in history. Many chemical discoveries will be made, hence chemists and doctors will be popular. Newspapers and magazines will be read and referred to by all classes of people more than ever before—every day, something new and useful will be heard of.

ANOTHER VOW.

For long, long months we've run amuck, with haphazard thrifts we have trotted, and eagerly blew in the buck, and all a sane counsel swatted. And now approaches New Year's Day, where on we make our pledges, and call down murrains (what are they?) on anyone who hedges. Until the Christmas season drifts, amuck we'll still be running, for we must blow ourselves for gifts, for doodads cute and cunning. But when the New Year's Day arrives, this folly let's be ending, let's renovate our wasted lives, and cut out foolish spending. It's time we were in training now, for future self-denial, for training up a solemn vow that we'll give thrift a trial. The old year, shaken, bent and white goes out by day stages; the New Year's coming—start it right, and pickle half your wages! The vows we made in other years would do for idle friskers; we swore we'd cut out cards and beers and cigarettes and whiskers. But we are facing sterner times; retrenchment is the motto; the watchword now is "Salt the dimes," and you'll agree we ought to. The old year, in its going, tells a tale of money-burning; the New Year's coming, wearing bells—then new leaves let's be turning!

Origins of Signs.

There may not seem to be any relation between the "Bag o' Nails" and "Bacchanals," but there is! This is how it came about: An inn-keeper put the sign of the "Bacchanals" over his door, but his customers, not understanding it, pronounced it "Bag o' Nails." "The Goat and Compasses" was once the "God Encompasseth." Another of a similar nature is the "Pig and Whistle." It is very old, being derived from the Anglo-Saxon phrase Piga Wassall, or "Hail, Virgin!" The "Lamb and Flag" is also religious in origin, but it retains its form unaltered. The "Swan With Two Necks" ought to be the "Swan With Two Nicks," for its head was marked with two cuts, or nicks, to show who owned it. "Bull and Mouth" is the "Boulogne Mouth," from a sea fight which occurred outside the mouth of the harbor. So is the "Cat and Fiddle." It should be the "Canton fiddle," or "faithful Canton," after a governor of Canada. Others are distinctly humorous. The "Good Woman" has no head to know her by. A woman trying to wash a black boy white is the sign over the legend, "Labor in Vain."
