Thursday Mr. and Mrs. E. Horsman were most completely and doubtlessly most agreeably surprised when, a few minutes after 8 p.m., they were summoned to the parlor, which they found occupied by as many of their employes as tound it possible to be present. The object of the unusual occurrence was soon made apparent when Miss Toul, coming in, handed over to Mr. R. Burns what proved to be a beautiful and most carefully constructed address, Mr. Burns, after a few preliminary remarks, proceeded to read the address, and at the propor moment Miss Jennie Fay made the presentation of a handsome clock, Mr. and Mrs. Horsman were so overwhelmed with what they considered the kindness and good will of their employes that it was with difficulty they were able to give expression to their gratitude, which they felt and extended to all, Mr. Collins, a traveler who was present, made a few very touching remarks in regard to a similar event in his own life, after which all dispersed with hearts made lighter and gayer for the happiness they had conferred on others.
