CONFESSED TO BRIBERY.

Startling Revelations as to South Ontario Elections.

Wm. Smith, Ex-M.P., Spent $1,200 to Buy Votes—Men Confess to Buying and Being Bought.

Whitby, Jan. 10.—The first day's work of the judicial commission to inquire into the bribery that has occurred in South Ontario has evoked grave and most sensational disclosures. Messrs. Wm. Lount, J. C. and Lieut.-Col. J. C. and Lieut.-Col. J. C. are acting as crown prosecutors. Mr. N. F. Patterson, of Oshawa, appeared for Lewis Luke and Stewart Bruce, two of the accused, and Mr. J. F. Grierson for Thomas Baker. All the other defendants were poor men, who had accepted bribes to vote for Calder, and were not represented by counsel. The guilt of these men had been established at the election trial, and their conviction is a foregone conclusion. The case against Lewis Luke was the most sensational. Luke is a self-proclaimed young man, who so often evaded questions that the judges reprimanded him severely. He was charged with giving Baker $100 for the purpose of bribing the men whom Baker had confessed he bribed to vote for Calder. Baker swore in the box that Luke had given him the money, and that Mr. W. Smith, ex-M.P., had sent him to Luke and had given him an order on Luke for $30 to "pay for votes he had contracted for but hadn't paid for." Luke flatly contradicted Baker on many points.

Mr. Wm. Smith, ex-M.P., candidly confessed that he had used a large sum—perhaps $1,200—for the purpose of buying votes for his ally, Mr. Lount, not pay it out himself, but selected others to do it for him.

"Can you name the persons?" Mr. Lount asked.

"Do you decline to name the persons?" "I do."

"You do know the persons, but decline to name them?"

"How many persons were there that you gave money to?"

"I do not propose even to tell that."

Mr. Lount—ask your lordships—Judge Ooster—think he may be asked that question.

Mr. Lount—How many persons were there to whom you gave money?

"If a dozen."

"How much to each?"

"I cannot tell that from memory."

"Have you a memorandum?"

"No."

Judge Ferguson—Can you tell us how much more than $900 you paid? No, I can't.

Can you say not as much as $1,200? It could not be more than $1,200.

"No, I cannot."

Judge Ooster—You don't seem to be ashamed of it? It is not an honor to me, sir.

Judge Ferguson—If it is done in a wholesale way is it a credit? No, sir.

In the course of Mr. Patterson's argument on Luke's behalf he claimed that Smith had given his evidence in a candid manner.

Judge Ooster—I should not call Mr. Smith's manner candid.

Mr. Patterson—He showed no disposition to fence with counsel.

Judge Ooster—should call it brazen—that is the word.

Mr. Lount, in his argument, claimed that Mr. Smith did not deserve credit, but stood self-confessed the commission of crime.

Thomas Edward Baker confessed to buying votes for Calder, Patrick Shearhan, L. J. Corryell, Wm. Hayes, James McNeill, John McGrath, Arthur Stapleton, John Shearhan, and others, being bribed by Baker to vote for Calder.

The court adjourned till today.

A Toronto Merchant Bears Important News to His Fellow Citizens.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Here is a letter we hope every one of our readers will peruse. "I am 39 years old. I have been troubled for four years with what I thought was Rheumatism—stiffness in the muscles of my legs, later in the arms. Soon the stiffness changed to soreness. Went to Hot Springs, and came back a little better. Was a moderate drinker, but quit using liquor altogether, and carefully regulated my diet. One day I got wet, and then the trouble was worse than ever. Had to lay off for three weeks. Have had similar attacks at intervals ever since, each one worse than its predecessor. Had headache, pain in the small of the back, urine dark, scanty and scalding. Began using Dr. Arnold's English Tonic Pills a short time ago, and am already wonderfully improved. Feel confident they will cure me, and I shall give them the chance and report. I have not felt so well for years as I have since I began using your pills."

FATEFUL FLAMES

Mrs. Pulitzer's Daring Rescue of Her Babies.

The New York Editor Loses $800,000 by Fire.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Jellett, the housekeeper for and companion of Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, who was burned to death in the Pulitzer town house, New York, yesterday, was a well-known Canadian lady, formerly resident in Toronto. Her son, Morgan Jellett, is a clerk in the "Traders" Bank here, and her daughter is in school in Toronto. Mrs. Jellett had been in New York for the greater part of ten years. Her maiden name was Sarah Bull, of Sterling, Ont.

Describing the New York fire a dispatch says: At the time the fire began there were in the house Mrs. Pulitzer, her daughters, Edith, 14 years old, and Constance, 12, and Mrs. Pulitzer's baby, two months old, and 22 servants. Mr. Pulitzer and his son, Joseph, Jun., are at Lakewood, N. J.

Mrs. Pulitzer was asleep, with her two daughters, Edith and Constance, on the second floor from the floor above was the nurse, with the baby. Mrs. Pulitzer was awakened by a crackling noise. She ran to one of the doors of the room, but found it locked. The other was open, and taking her children, she started down stairs, shouting the alarm.

After placing Edith and Constance in the street she hurried up to the floor and found the nurse with the baby in her arms about to get out on the fire escape. The woman was hysterical. Mrs. Pulitzer quieted the nurse, took the baby from her and sent her to the street.

John O'Connor, the second butler, a narrow escape. He slept on the top floor with another servant. He was aroused by Mrs. Pulitzer's cries and finding the smoke coming thickly upward, he rushed to the window, and jumped to the roof of the next house. O'Connor was overcome by the smoke and sank down when he reached a place of safety. His companion revived him and assisted him to the street.

The house contained a valuable historical library and many carefully selected works of art. Nothing of value was saved. The total loss is estimated at $300,000.

While a crew of firemen, numbering about 12, were at work on the third floor after the fire was extinguished, the flooring gave way and the men fell to the second floor. Lieut. Hauck was painfully hurt.

MR. LARMOUR'S INVENTION

Former Assistant Superintendent of the G. T. R. at London and His Bullet-Proof Coat.

Major Robert Larmour, of Stratford, formerly assistant superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway at London, is the inventor of a device that answers the same purpose as the bullet-proof coat invented by a German, and now used by the infantry of the German army.

The device is somewhat similar to a shield, extending from the head to the knees. It is supposed to be of superlative steel plate, and it flattens out a bullet as readily as armor-plate. To demonstrate that it can be utilized to the greatest advantage in war, Major Larmour purposes allowing a representative of the militia to fire at him when encased in the armor at 100, 50 and 25 yards. Then, to prove that it is not too heavy for the average British soldier to carry, Major Larmour intends strapping it over his back some day shortly, with the additional amount the British regular usually carries, and tramping to this city. He is 59 years of age, and his undertaking will be a heavy one. Mr. Larmour is a native of the county of Dundas, and during the recent raid was connected with the Grand Trunk Brigade, from which he retired with the rank of major.

Song of the Century.

[By Edwin Markham.]

Sung in the Purpose of the Upper Sphere, We sweep on to the Century ahead.

But something makes the heart of man forebode.

For Labor is the Sphinx beside the road; And we must answer its dread Question—

Or perish as the tribes of yesterday.

Thunder and earthquake crouch behind the gate; But fear not; man is greater than his fate, And one will come with Answer—with a word.

Wherein the feet of morning will be heard; One who will feel the grief in every breast, The heart-cry of humanity for rest.

So we await the Leader to appear, To guide and lead and lead and lead and lead.

The hero who will fill the Labor Throne, And build the Conrade Kingdom, stone by stone.

That Kingdom that is greater than the Dream, Breaking through ancient vision, gleam by gleam.

Something that Song alone can faintly feel, And only Song's wild rapture can reveal.

Thrilled by the Cosmic Oneness he will rise, Youth in his heart and morning in his eyes; While glory, fallen from the far-off goal, Will send mysterious pleasure on his soul.

Him shall all toilers know to be their friend; Him shall they follow faithful to the end.

Though every leaf were a tongue to cry, "Thou must."

He would not say the unjust thing is just. Not all the fiends that cry in the eclipse Shall shake his heart or hush his lyric lips, His cry for justice, it will stir the stones From Hell's black granite to the Seraph thrones.

Earth listens for the coming of his feet; The hushed Fates lean expectant from their seat.

He will be calm and reverent and strong, And carrying in his thought the fire of song.

Will send a cry upon these weary men, A cry to make the heart grow young again, A cry to cordons, scattered and afar: "Be constipated, star by circling stars, Give to all mortals justice and forgive—License must die and Liberty may live. Let love shine through the fabric of the state—Love, deathless Love, whose other name is Fate."

Fear not; we cannot fail—The vision will prevail, Truth to the Oath of God, and sure and fast, Through Death and Hell holds onward to the last."
