A METHODIST COLLEGE IN TORONTO.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 9, 1883.

Supposing the two methodist universities of Ontario become amalgamated the denomination controlling the new institution have full power to locate it where they chose. It seems to be the unanimous opinion of those interested that the new college shall te neither at Cobourg nor Belleville, the seats of the present colleges. Hamilton is spoken of, and certainly that city has many advantages. It is a sort of methodist centre, and contains many liberal men belonging to that denomination. It is said the large sum of $200,000 will be subscribed on condition of the college being located in Hamilton, and the fine site of Dundurn, overlooking the bay, is mentioned as being offered gratis by the city. ever, for the church to consider if Toronto than offset the attraction offered by the ambitious city. Toronto is the intellectual versity college is the first literary institustupid on the part of many religious deexistence. Knox college, McMaster hall. and the Protestant Episcopal divinity school have set an example worthy to be followed by all the other denominations. These colleges are run on rational principles, economizing and giving their students the best education they can. University col- cannot, therefore, be food. And if not food row. I do not think it required a great lege, where they obtain a staff of excellent it must be poison in its relations to the used to educate their students in literature, science and philosophy, while the whole other, whether it be potatoes, cabbages efforts of their own professional staff are devoted to theology and divinity, which If a potato is taken into a normal stomach der, and it is this that if $200,000 could be procured in Hamilton, double that sum might easily, we think, be secured in Toronto, where there are many wealthy and enterprising methodists who would no doubt willingly come forward and head a movement on a sound financial footing. A site could be procured in the park on favorable terms from the university.

THE CHURCH USURPING THE STAGE.

The church which has all along been the most formidable enemy of the stage may yet turn round and become its most active limited scope of the church. It is received as a recognized fact that people must have entertainment, and why should not the charch be the means of supplying it. The church by furnishing innocent amusement to young people might keep them from seeking it in other places that are surrounded by temptations. The fact that the opera "Patience" was recently played in New York in the church of the Messiah should not startle liberal-minded people howsoever much the circumstance will be depresated by the adherents of the old school idea. Simultaneously with the singing of that opera a play called "A Suit for Slander" was being acted in another fashionable church of the same city. Both entertainments proved very successful, and no one has been able to point out how they were got from among the people themselves. In the church where the opera was sung the | building situated near the the girls' home choir furnished the singers, the organist The institution is designed to receive fallen nished the stage and scenery, and the con- virtue, life and peace, an object highly and no little skill were happily mingled.

the fashionable people of this country are much put out therent. To become a high aspiration for any Canadian lady to entertain, but we are glad to see that some are bold enough to put in a claim for what is justly their right. No one who is not an American-born citizen can ever become president of the United States. In Canada directly the opposite rule prevails. No one who is a Canadian has the ghost of a chance of being made the chief magistrate of his own country. Such is the difference in the national sentiment of a free state and that of a colonial dependency. It is said the princess cannot bear the lack of refinement she sees in Canadian society, and that she prefers hibernating in Bermuda to putting in another season at Ottawa. This only goes to show that a foreigner as mistress of Rideau hall is less likely to be satisfied herself and less likely to prove amiable to others than would a Canadian lady placed

The question whether alcohol is poison: whether it is food in any sense; whether it exists naturally in food, etc., must be settioned as being offered gratis by the city.

The students consequently obtain a better divinity and a better general education than if the divinity colleges educated their students in every department.

White a potato is taken into a normal stomach it is a pronounced temperance man, and furthermore, one of the candidates belongs to a political party who have always been obstructionists against the temperance movement. There is still a further argument which used, but cast out as poison through the few years back in regard to the passage of ings, skin and other depurating org But we are told by the tipplers that al-cohol exists in our foods, and a little of it must therefore be good. This is pleasant enough—a good conscience salvo; but it enough—a good conscience salvo; but it happens not to be true. Science says there is no alcohol in rye, or barley, or potatoes—none in any organic product. You cannot get whiskey out of any of these until you destroy them as organic products; until you destroy them as tood; until you rot them. A rotten potato however is no longer and the any more than the salve of th

The old-fashioned idea was bread we eat. Granted, but to that extent that the church had nothing at all to do with entertaining its members, and the Oh, but, says one, there is alcohol in the stage was looked upon as iniquitous. But the growth of intelligence is beginning to displace this erroneous idea as to the of the flour; and to that extent is the bread deteriorated. Now bread can be made without destroying by firmentation any of the elements of the grain; and this is the only wholesome bread.
