detachment of the Royal Artillery at Exeter refused to parade and cut the harness on the horses. Yesterday a portion of the Army Service corps attached to the garrison at Chatham revolted. Twenty men were arrested and punished. The complaints of the rebellious soldiers in all these cases are identical: the imposition of needless and vexatious duties by subalterns. It seems probable that in these "weak and piping times of peace" a system of martinetism is springing up beyond Tommy Atkins' power to endure. Either war or disarmament must come soon.

The smart young man of The Hamilton Herald goes off half-cocked as usual over the Kemmer execution and asserts that the sole object of capital punishment "is to deter people mander ously disposed from committing murder." The S.Y.M. has one or two little things to learn yet, it seems.—Toronto World.

Admitting that the smart young man of The Hamilton Herald is smart and young and has one or two little things to learn yet, will The World kindly explain what it is smart and young and has one or two little things to learn yet, will The World kindly explain what it is talking about? Its idea of the object of capital punishment, judging by the foregoing, is apt to be unique.—Hamilton Herald:

Certainly, sonny. One of the objects of capital punishment is to fitly avenge a crime adjudged in all ages worthy of death. Another is to effectually protect society from a man who has proved himself incapable of the self-control which would mable him to live with safety to the fives of his fellow-men. The World may have been mistaken in assuming that you were smart, but evidently you are very, very young.

Mr. Commissionar Government and punished in the provident of the self-control which would may have been mistaken in assuming that you were smart, but evidently you are very, very young.

Mr. Commissioner Coatsworth has cabled the art. Commissioner Coassworth has caoled the stayor news of his safe arrival at Liverpool. If the old man paid for the message the extravarance is a hardship on his heirs. If the city pays, a these days of enforced frugality and defeated tylaws, it is an outrage on the citizens and The Evening Wheel, whereon butterfiles are being so constantly horizon has a real galescape for its Evening Wheel, whereon butterfiles are being so constantly broken, has a real grievance for its lext issue. How many people who start for Liverpool fail to get there? A man is in far more langer of his life in the streets presided over by Mr. Coatsworth, as he knows to his cost. The percentage of life lost crossing the Atlantic is less han one in a million. Still there are inexperienced nincompoops who continue to this much of the feat as our grandfathers did, when hey went down to the sea in sailing ships of 500 ons and took two months on the voyage. Tralitions die hard.

"Mowat Gate," the name chiselled on the en-mance to the "Queen Victoria Niagara Falls ark," is not euphonious. Besides, it should at must be "Premier Oliver Mowat Park Gate," just match the name given to the park. There is comething snappy and smart about that. nething snappy and smart about that.

The Office Hog Must Go. The Office Hog Must Go.

[From The Ottawa Journal (Ludependent).]
The Toronto World points out a moral as to the office-seeking hog by publishing the record of the Hon. A. M. Ross, late treasurer in the Mowat Government, now clerk of the County Court of York

1. School 2. Sch ernment, now clerk of the County Court of York at $5000 or $6000 a year. Mr. Ross was a pensioner on the province for 25 years as county clerk of Huron, then the people of Huron sent him to the legislature. He was, when this happened, well off, which is not always the case with members. Yet when he got into the Cabinet he promptly had his two sons appointed to public offices: then deciding to retire himself from actions. ffices; then, deciding to retire himself from acive politics on the plea of poor health, he found tive politics on the plea of poor health, he found himself healthy enough to take his present fat position. This gentleman, who provides so liberally for his family as well as himself, is not a poor man—on the contrary, he is said to be worth a summar/complaints of the contrary of the man-on the contrary, he is said to be worth a cool hundred thousand or so. There are Conservatives who are as big "office hogs" as the Hon. M. Ross, and we fancy the bus ness will always be popular with both parties until the people elect their own officials directly. The Toronto World has been hauling Hon. Mr. Ross, late Provincial Treasurer (who now enjoys the emoluments of a very lucrative office in this county), over the coals in a most lively fashion; be true, the Ontario Executive will have to com-mence a speedy reform crusade, or the people of this Province will be sorry they returned so many supporters of that Government at the last elecdonement of public abuses.

[From The Hamilton Spectator.] The ratepayers of Toronto have again given evidence of the sort of people they are. When Toronto University building was destroyed by fire loud cries for aid were raised. Money poured in from many quarters. Even Mr. Mercler opened Quebec's treasury and sent $10,000. At last the time came for Toronto herself to do something, and a bylaw granting a liberal sum was on Wednesday submitted to the people. But it was voted down by nearly four to one. The citizens of Toronto think it is far more blessed to receive of Toronto think it is far more blessed to receive than to give. They have played the part of sturdy beggars so long that they think they should be supported by the rest of the province The best thing the authorities of the university could do would be to remove it to some place willing to assist in the rebuilding, and to provide some adequate protection against another fire Toronto is just the place for Mr. Mowat's town thip council, but it is no place for a seat of learn

This word, which is only in vulgar or colloquial use, and which some of the lexicographers have attempted to trace to learned roots, originated in a joke. Daily, the manager of a Dublin play house, wagered that a word of no meaning should be the common talk and puzzle of the city in wenty-four hours. In the course of that time the letters Q U I Z were chalked on all the walls of Dublin with an effect that won the wager. Some hold that the word now means, "a riddle, or "to puzzle."

What We Know, With Con-

Draw Sir,—In May last a copy of "The Microcome Extra" was put into my hand. I read it carefully and critically with the result that I immediately procured your Heatth Pamphlet from a local agent, first signing an Honor Pledge not to reveal the treatment outside of my family and paying $4 for it, with the following results: I had been for several years a great sufferer from dyspepsa, neuralgia of the stomach and palpitation of the heart. During the last three years, especially, so hyper-sensitive was my stomach and so subject to neuralgic pain, that I was in the daily habit of throwing off almost every meal within haif an hour after eating. I began your treatment without medicine early in May, and incredible as it may appear my first meal thereafter agreed with me perfectly, and I have had no trouble with indigestion since then except on two or three occasions when forgetting that there had not yet been sufficient time for the stomach to regain its normal muscular and fraction of the property in means.

have had no trouble with indigestion since then except on two or three occasions when forgetting that there had not yet been sufficient time for the stomach to regain its normal muscular and functional tone, I indulged too freely in meats, tea or coffee. With these particular exceptions, I have not known, since the days of my boyhood vigor, such physical comfort as I have entoyed since adopting your unique treatment. The radical and happy changes are simply marvelous. Dyspepsia, Neuralgia and Palpitation with their miscrable concomitants are all gone and I have gained thirteen pounds, while my muscular system is becoming surprisingly solid. I can name scores here in Toronto quite as promounced and enthusiastic as myself in giving expression to the benefits received from your treatment, though their aliments were in many instances quite different from my own. I know of cases of constitution, piles, inflammation with hemorrhage of the kidneys, and dysentery of a dangerous type, where the treatment has wrought wonders. As $4 meets almost the entire expense for a life-time, it is beyond calculation certainly the cheapest as well as the most speedy source of relief for all ordinary allments ever offered to the public. As a preventive of disease it must be equally potent and efficacious. I would just say in conclusion that your treatment was not entirely new to me, as I had occasionally practised it, in part, for many years—but only in part—and never with the slightest idea of its far-reaching physiological and therapeutical effects so carefully traced in your forty—one years' experience, and also so clearly and lucidly unfolded in your Health Famphlet, and, therefore, the little I had known and practised was quite useless for any purpose save the most transient results. This, I so consonant with nature that it cannot lose its specific effects on the system.

Very truly yours,

J. WESLEY SIMPSON.

Nothing but intrinsic and proved merit could have induced such action on my part.
