

CHAPTER VI.

THE ANCIENT LAW TRANSFORMED	PAGE 60
The publication of the first Scripture, its significance—The leading ideas of Deuteronomy—The effects of the recognition of the Lawbook.

CHAPTER VII.

FRAUD OR NEEDFUL ILLUSION?	69
Criticism of the narrative in 2 Kings xxii.—The Mosaic authorship of the Lawbook, not tenable—Reasons for this—Notes on the allusions to Egypt in Deuteronomy, and on the finding of the Lawbook.

CHAPTER VIII.

"HIS REMEMBRANCE IS LIKE MUSIC" (ECCLUS. XLIX. 1)	87
David's "last words" fulfilled in Josiah—His thirteen golden years after the great covenant—Jeremiah's comparative happiness—His friends among the wise men—Pharaoh Neco profits by the weakness of Assyria—Josiah's defeat at Megiddo; his death—The national mourning—The tragedy of his life, and of Israel's history.

PART II.

THE CLOSE OF JUDAH'S TRAGEDY.

CHAPTER I.

THE CLOUDS RETURN AFTER THE RAIN	102
Consequences of Josiah's death—Jeremiah's changed attitude towards Deuteronomy—His visit to Anathoth.

CHAPTER II.

ON THE VERGE OF MARTYRDOM	114
Jeremiah's sermon in the Temple—The fate of Shiloh—The prophet's trial and acquittal—The martyrdom of Uriah.

CHAPTER III.

KEEP THE MUNITION, WATCH THE WAY!	125
Progress of Neco—Accession of Jehoahaz, and soon after of Jehoiakim—Fall of Nineveh—Neco's defeat by Nebuchadrezzar—Dread of Babylon at Jerusalem—Jeremiah's new peace of mind—His prophecy on Egypt, &c.	