v. Woodley, an action as to the title to land, the defendant did not appear and judgment was entered for the plaintiff with costs, and in Bell v. City of Towns 1800 and 1800

Justice Falconbridge found a fact on the evidence at the trial the promissory note upon which the intiff sued was dated in 1886, but that plaintiff had changed the last figure an "8" and that therefore the note was dunder the Bills of Exchange Act, 0, because such an alteration was dered a material one by the Act and he missed the action with costs.
