The ability of the actors employed by Manager G.W.Lederer in the Casino productions was exemplified during one of the early performances there of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" which compete the Grand Opened employe of the civil courts and brother-in-law of the condemned woman, accompanied by her niece, called upon several judges of the Superior Caurt and the Court of Appeal, to solicit their signatures to the petition. Very few of the judges seen this morning would lend their names to the petition. One judge said that he would not move a finger to help a woman like Cordelia Vian. "Let her suffer," he said. Another judge remarked that he had heard of the petition, but no one had as yet called upon him in reference to it. "They had setter not," he added.

TELECT. Louis Wesley and the Incubator Girls, to sing her song, "All Around the Town, Boys." For a few moments the actors resorted to impromptu speeches and "gags," hoping that Miss Zella would turn up but, as the orchestra struck the first bars of the song, they all three nobly made a bluff at the words, and "faked" them through to the chorus, until the Incubator Girls came to their help with a will, and the refrain wits never before sung with such vim and dash. So well did the song go that the audience demanded another verse, and again the actors "faked" as best they could.

Neither zero nor any other weather has been able to keep people away from the rincess this week. Up to last night six performances of the 12 that go to make up he week had been given and the attendance, barring holidays, has on each occasion been close to a record one for size. That the public has been delighted with "The Three Guardsmen" has been shown by the liberality of the applause, which

At the Bijou.

The popular little house is filled daily to see Doc, the wonderful trick dog, who does everything but speak. The dog and his master make up a team that is hard to beat on the vaudeville stage. There are ten other good acts also on the bill, including the mariomette, or fantoccini, operated by the Middletons. The figures are wonderfully life-like in their movements, and it is one of the best acts on the bill. The juggling of Ozav is very clever. Howard and Warren do a clever little sketch, in which Mr. Warren gives some very good imitations. Gussie Nelson can sing coon songs with a dash and vim that brings her good applause; she is also a clever little dancer. Williams and Melbourne give a nice little musical sketch, interspersed with banjo playing, and some up-to-date coon songs. Shows will be given every afternoon and evening, at popular prices.
