Some interesting lessons are taught by the exposure of corruption in high places at St. Louis. The reversal of many of the convictions by the Supreme Court of the state and the consequent escape of the accused men has been incorruption has prevailed in certain with the courts and the prerogatives of the Crown to disfranchise a constituency for a year and a half, to delay or hasten the session of the legislature so as to enable these demigods to cling to office? If a Whitney cabinet were formed it would be composed of representatives of the people, and it could not retain office except by the will of the people. That is the test of the state and the consequent is too well known to be denied. Electoral corruption has prevailed in certain constituencies as the result of the American system introduced into the conduct of elections, by which means Liberal candidates have been temporarily benefited. LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR SHOULD ACT.

Goldwin Smith, seen by The World, thus expressed his opinion. on the situation: "The prerogative of the crown is, I take it, entrusted to the Lieutenant Governor for the purpose of seeing that the constitution is observed and that the government is in the hands of those who have the confidence of the people. It seems to me that it would be a misuse of this prerogative if it were exerted for the purpose of party strategy, or for keeping in power those who had lost the confidence of the people.

"As to whether the present government has lost the confidence of the people, I can scarcely presume to offer an opinion. The general impression seems to be that it has. I don't pretend to be a judge of the political situation, but it appears to mo that the result of the present struggle of the government to hold power may wreck the Liberal party in Ontario and perhaps not without injury to the Doninion government in the approaching general election.

"It looks to me as if the situation has reached the point where the Lieutenant Governor must act on his own discretion, assert the prerogative of the crown and cease to accept the advice of the cabinet representing the interests of the majority of the people. The Lieutenant Governor is bound to act upon the advice of the ministers in all ordinary questions of policy, but not on the position of the ministers themselves."

"Could the Lieutenant-Governor refuse constitutionally to sign the order in council convening the legislature?" "If he was satisfied the convening of the body was an act of party strategy certainly he could. There are instances in Canadian history illustrating the exercise of the prerogative of the crown, contrary to the advice of the cabinet. This was true of Sir Edmund Head, Governor-General, when he refused to dissolve the Dominion parliament on the advice of George Brown, and I think he was quite right. Here the Governor-General exercised his discretion. Lieutenant-Governor Clark could exercise the same discretion independent of any a vivice in the present crisis."

Dr. Smith declared that the inference that the government con vened the legislature for the purpose of avoiding the consequences of the pending protests was too clear to be combatted. Therefore it waa move of party strategy which called for the instant exercise of the discretionary powers vested in the Lieutenant Governor.

According to papers in the possession of C. B. Richard & Co., Spencer has been operating on a scale which, when all the details are known, will probably involve sums reaching to thousands of dollars. These include drafts and cheques bearing the names of the Credit Lyonnais of Paris, the Russian Bank of Foreign Trade, of the same city; the Anglo-American Express Company, and French, Lemon & Co., of Florence, Italy. lorence, Italy.

Left Forged Cheque in New York, In the last two months letters of ininquiry have come to Richard & Co. from firms in London, Paris, Brussels, Bordighera, Italy, which is close to Monte Carlo, and other European cities, all conveying information of the man's operations and asking for facts as to his identity and reliability.

While working on a large scale abroad Spencer was not above petty swindling here, for the Glizey Hodse has a worthless cheque for $25 signed by Spencer on Sept. 29 last and drawn to his own order on the Riggs National Bank of Washington. On one end of the face of this check were printed the words "S. W. Spencer, H.B.M.'s V. Consul," and it was certified with the name of H. H. Mathews, assistant cashier of the Riggs Bank, which eignature turned out to be a forgery. It was during his stay at the Glisey House that he called on Richard & Co., and had negotiations with F. E. Tamlyn, foreign forwarding clerk for that firm. To Tamlyn he said that he wished to ship on behalf of the Trenton Watch Company, Limited, of Trenton N.J., a case of watches to Emil de Loth, at Marseilles, France, and that he desired to make a draft against that shipment. He obtained one of Richard & Co.'s shipping instruction blanks, which he filled in regular form, making the amount of insurance $1289.60, and also one of their drafts, which he also filled for the sum of 6000f., signing it "The Trenton Watch Company, Limited, per S. W. Spencer, Attorney."

The firm also communicated with the British Consul in this city, and learned that Spencer's claims in that regard were also false.

It was in the early part of November that Richard & Co. began to recive the communications from abroad.

The Westminster Abbey Songsters.
The Westminstr Abbey Glee and Concert Party delighted a large audience in Massey Hall last night with an exception of old English part songs, glees and madrigals. Encores were numerous and the selections given were at alli times appreciated. That well-known glee, "Hail, Smilling Morn," was given with a beautiful freshness and expressive tenderness. "The Bells encore and the voices of the boys and men blended beautifully to bring out the deep and high notes of the bells. The glee party also sang "Who Shall Take My Lady Fair?" and for an encore "Come Let Us Go Maying." Mr. P. Coward has a remarkably clear, rich and penetrating voice, which was ex-pressively exhibited in the song Mary, an old Scotch ballad. Edward Branscombe gave "The Lowland Sea" instead of "The Meeting of the Waters," and for an encore "As I'd Nothing Else To Do." The catch, "Ah, oh. Scphia." was followed by another humorous catch, in which we vocalists wrangled over whether the dead cat was Old Tom or Young Tom and any ing "his piece." A duet between a man and woman, in which he imitated both voices, was very novel. Madame Marie Hooten gave some good old-time Eng-lish songs, "True Lasses and Lads" and "Barbara Allen" being among them. Madame Hooten sang in excellent voice and was twice encored.
