WOMEN ORGANIZE TO CONSERVE FOOD

Executive Appointed to Act in Conjunction With Resources Committee.

CONFERENCE YESTERDAY

To Educate People to Use All Food That is Perishable.

Women, representative of many of the large organizations of the city and Dominion, met yesterday afternoon at the parliament buildings, and as a result of the gathering it was determined to hold a conference which shall be provincial in its scope, the energies of which will be directed to the conservation of food for patriotic purposes. Mr. W. E. Russell presided, and explained the make-up and personnel of the conservation of resources committee, at whose invitation the women were present—of which the chairman is the lieutenant-governor of the province, and Sir William Hearst and Hon. N. W. Rowell, vice-chairmen. The organization is a business men to mobilize the resources of the province for purposes of war. At the beginning the committee were in session daily for six weeks from 2 to 6 and sometimes until later in the evening. Recently, meetings have been held twice or more times a week. The committee have already dealt with many questions, among them those of helping the farmer, problems regarding loans, fish, transportation, storage and marketing, and they had early come to the conclusion that to produce and conserve food was the greatest problem with which they would have to grapple.

Women's Work. In doing this the committee thought that women could do the best service. Mr. Russell pointed out that there was a great danger of the brave men at the front being put on short rations, and this it is the duty of those at home to prevent by putting themselves on short allowance. He wanted the co-operation and sympathy of the women of the province in the matter. He wanted them to do a big bit of service. What this was women were told of the meeting. The things being done now would not only help for the present, but would lay the foundation for reconstruction after the war.

The second speaker was Norman Sommerville, who complimented the women by saying that while in the past there had been some mistakes, there was one thing quite certain, that there was no mistake made in choosing women to co-operate in the war. It was the object of the conference to inform the women of the city which might lead to a province wide campaign. He recognized that there were in existence excellent organizations of church and patriotic activities—the nine hundred women's institutes, the splendid thrift committee and others—all doing fine work. It was the object of the conference to get these all together, to get away from the city idea, and to make the work it was proposed to do provincial.

Symbol of Democracy. The meeting to his mind was symbolic of democracy, the thing we are fighting for today. Germany had chosen to fight for autocracy, and autocracy had sat back and thought it could win the war. Here it was democracy that was organizing with the greater spirit that goes behind it, there would come an executive which would be representative of the farm, the city, labor, the church and every other activity. He believed that the meeting represented the power, force and ability to do things. There were many problems to be solved, some of which would be handled best by being left absolutely to women. Others might result better if men and women co-operated, or perhaps it left it all together to men. There are the problems of waste—in hotels and restaurants, waste among merchants and in marketing processes.

One Big Problem.

The one big problem which the women would have to handle was that of the conservation of food in the home. It would be their mission to educate people to use food that is perishable and to save that which could be saved. People plodded themselves to the deficiency of 150,000,000 bushels of wheat. It is the duty of all in this country to release all food possible for our brave men at the front and the allies in Europe.

Mr. Sommerville advised that centres be established which should work through a permanent secretary, thru a publicity campaign—the press, moving pictures, street cars and the rest. He also suggested the "pledge," which had been adopted in other countries, by which people pledged themselves to economy of food. The resources committee wanted co-operation, and he felt sure that the ladies present were ready to give it.

No Provincial Force.

Discussion followed in the course of which Mrs. L. A. Hamilton pointed out that while representatives of municipal and national bodies were present there was no provincial force that could co-ordinate for the purposes needed. Mr. Russell thought that the executive chosen by the meeting, would be sufficient to bring about the proposed provincial conference. Mrs. A. M. Huestis told of a demonstration she had seen of the drying of vegetables thru the medium of the moving picture, and she thought that that shopkeepers be asked to keep whole wheat for the convenience of many customers who might use it. The question of co-operation with the controller was brought up by Mrs. Torrington, and Mrs. Willoughby Cummings pointed out the danger of waste of energy unless systematic organization is established between organizations already at work and the proposed new channel.

Before the close of the meeting a previously drafted resolution was accepted by the gathering. Mrs. H. D. Warren moving it, and Mrs. Yankoughnet being the seconder, approving of the suggestion of the organization of resources committee to call a provincial conference with the women with a view to organize the women of the Province of Ontario to conserve foodstuffs and to prevent waste and to advocate thrift and economy in the home, and to this end that the following committee, to co-operate with the resources committee in making the necessary arrangements, be appointed: Lady Hearst, Mrs. N. W. Rowell, Mrs. F. H. Torrington, Mrs. A. E. Gooderham, Miss Pindley, Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. W. O. Duncan, Mrs. Loosmore, Miss Marie MacDonnell. Owing to illness in her home, Mrs. Loosmore thought it would be impossible for her to act, and so resigned. Mrs. H. D. Warren's name was then added. The new committee held a short conference at the close of the general meeting.

The act comes direct from New York and contains the newest and best of Gotham's song successes. La Selbini, "The Bathing Girl," will present a number of new and novel picture plays.
