THE NEW-OLD CARTWHEEL PARASOL-FAN

Elderly ladies have clung to these "cartwheels," which close up and form a straight stick for church use, for years and the black and red leather folding fans have always been obtainable in the department stores. Now, by a whisk of fickle fashion's fancy, back comes the ancient cartwheel to favor for evening use, and they are so pretty and so dainty that all the summer girls are carrying them, slung on the wrist by means of a bracelet hoop wound with ribbon. The one illustrated may be readily changed into a parasol by just the pull of a string which adjusts the fan so as to form a parasol. The parasol-fan is made of gauze, handpainted and at the edge there is a border of lace. The gauze is backed by a stiffer material in color, which maintains the pleats necessary for the quick closing of the parasol-fan. The stick is of white wood, pearl or bone.

Did you ever hear any one say they could not get good coffee except in the States?

I have heard it, scores of times, and it's one of the reasons that made me decide to go into the Coffee business.

Of the Americans who visit us in summer, hundreds take home a supply of Red Rose Tea because they have never tasted such good tea before. I determined to put up a coffee that would make for itself just as good a reputation. It has not been easy, but I am sure I have succeeded.

Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee, put up in sealed tins is—well, it's good coffee. You and your American friends will say so.

Paupers in England

At the end of April, out of an estimated population of 36,750,000, there were 785,008 paupers in receipt of relief in England and Wales. This is one of the highest figures on record, having only been exceeded in April of the two preceding years and in the four years from 1870. In London the paupers numbered 121,749, a ratio of 25.2 per 1,000 inhabitants.

It now is possible to telephone from Liverpool to Paris, Brussels, and several smaller cities and towns in France and Belgium.

Berlin to be a Seaport

It has been officially stated that before the summer of 1912 the ship canal from the Stettin to Berlin will be completed and ready for traffic. The length of the canal is eighty-two miles. The completion of the canal will enable Berlin to receive cargoes without breaking bulk from ports throughout the world. The canal won't accommodate gigantic freighters, but it will be sufficiently deep to permit the passage of the ordinary freighter.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM

Is the Only Possible Way of An Effective Cure

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair you may give it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that claim to cure dandruff, but not one kills the germ. Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure for dandruff and its consequent falling hair can only be had by killing the germ, and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One Dollar Bottle Guaranteed.

Nest in Tin Can

A singular bird's nest was discovered recently near a hedge which bordered one side of Tit-Bits athletic grounds at Acton. A cricket match was in progress, and the ball was diven by a batsman to the boundary. The ball rolled against an old rusty tin can, which was found to contain a robin sitting on two eggs.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"THEN you don't trust me."

"My dear, you know perfectly that I'd trust you anywhere and that I feel you are safe with Carl as you would be with your own brother."

"Then why on earth, mother, can't he come to call on me even if I am going to be alone in the house. I think it's perfectly absurd."

"Because it won't look well, Dorothy, and we live in a world of other people."

"Looks, looks, looks—Oh, I am so sick of hearing about 'looks.' What difference do appearances make if I do what's right?"

As I listened to that conversation the other day between one of my friends and her eighteen-year-old daughter, I wondered if there were a mother in this land of convention hating young folks who had not had a somewhat similar conversation with her particular Dorothy.

Again and again, both in my own and other people's homes and in my letters, I've met the substance of that impatient question of Dorothy's.

"What difference do appearances make if I do what's right?"

Just the difference between a clean, good road and a rough, uneven road strewn with obstacles, just the difference between a fair wind and a continually opposing one, on the highway to success and achievement.

Sometimes the rebels against convention say, "But if it is a question between conscience and convention, between doing right and appearing to do right, isn't it much better to be true to yourself?"

Absolutely and always "Yes," if you are sure that what you think is right, IS right.

But I don't believe that problem will arise more than two or three times in a lifetime.

The choice is far more often between convention and pleasure, between doing what is morally right but conventionally wrong and what is both morally right and conventionally right.

And when that question arises why not win for yourself at the sacrifice of a little pleasure, a temporary inclination, the clean, good road and the fair wind that comes from standing well in the opinions of your fellow men.

Satisfy yourself first always. That's right. But after that try to satisfy your fellow men, too, for that is expedient, and expediency has its place in this world as well as morality.

"My character is my own, but my reputation belongs to any old body who enjoys gossiping more than telling the truth," I read the other day in a book of epigrams.

Like most epigrams, it sounds good, but it isn't wholly true, for your reputation is also your own if you will take the pains to keep it so.

The Chinese have a proverb—

"Do not pull up your stockings in a melon patch or straighten your hat in a peach orchard; anyone seeing you may think you are stealing."

Expressed in more straightfgord fashion we find the same thought nearer home.

"Avoid the appearance of evil."

Daily Hints for the Cook

FRENCH DRESSING.

One spoonful of salt, the same of mustard and sugar. A dash of pepper. A tablespoonful of olive oil. Mix well together, adding the oil last; stir smooth. Add two more spoonfuls of olive oil, and one tablespoonful of vinegar. Red pepper may be used instead of the black if preferred.

COLD SLAW.

Slice and chop fine one head of cabbage. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Bruise the cabbage with a potato masher. Serve with a dressing made of one-half pint of sour cream, four tablespoonful of vinegar and three.

CORN CHOWDER.

Take four thin slices of fat pork, fry out crisp, then slice in one large or two medium sized onions. Fry till tender. Slice potatoes thin, say about 4 or 5, put all into a kettle with water and boil. When nearly done put in a can of corn, and boil a little longer. Season with salt, and before removing pour in a little milk.

STRAWBERRY JAM.

Take three-quarters of a pound of crushed lump sugar to each pound of dry picked fruit, place the fruit and sugar in alternate layers into a brass of copper pan, bring the contents of the pan to the boil, carefully removing any scum which may rise to the surface, and boil gently for half an hour, keeping the fruit well stirred to prevent it from catching at the bottom of the pan; then pour it into jars, and when cool cover and put away in a cool place until wanted.

This jam, if properly made and the above instructions carefully folowed, would keep for years. Some persons like a few red currants with strawberry jam. Be careful to gather the strawberries in fine weather, as the jam will not keep nearly so well if gathered after a shower.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Rev. Dr. Henry W. Rugg, a prominent Knights Templar of Rhode Island, is dead at his home in Providence.

A man about thirty-two years of age was arrested yesterday in Chicago, on suspicion of being Dr. Crippen, who is wanted for the murder of his wife, in London. The police, now, have doubts as to the identity of the man, however.

The loss of eleven lives at Fort Munroe, Va., yesterday is attached to the failure of a safety mechanism to operate successfully for some artillerymen. General Crozier tested all the guns immediately afterwards.

It is reported that a foot and mouth disease exists among Yorkshire cattle, and if this is so, it is probable that the Canadian government will place an embargo on cattle from this place, which are frequently imported for breeding purposes.

In most parts of the province of British Columbia the fires have been beaten out by men and rain, but along the west bank of the Winnipeg river they are still raging fiercely. The C. P. R. tracks at Big Ben, B. C., were badly damaged by the flames.

Judge Gregory is critically ill at his home in Fredericton, and his son, Judge F. B. Gregory, of British Columbia, has been summoned to his bedside.

His Excellency Earl Grey and Countess a six weeks' stay in England.

COOK SUES SOCIETY WOMAN FOR $15,000

Mary Madden Wants That Amount as a Balm for Feelings Hurt by an Alleged False Arrest —Dispute Over 83 Cents

New York, July 23—Mrs. Gertrude Rhinelander Waldo, of No. 31 East Seventy second street, mother of Fire Commissioner Waldo, was yesterday served with a complaint in a supreme court action brought against her for $15,000 damages by Mary Madden, formerly a cook in the Waldo mansion. The damages are sought as balm for feelings hurt by an alleged false arrest.

In September of last year Mrs. Waldo and Mary fell out over the amount of wages that was coming to the cook at the end of a certain week. Mary contended, with a good deal of emphasis, that she was entitled to $5, and Mrs. Waldo said the sum due was only $4.17. A deadlock resulted after considerable argument.

Finally the luncheon hour arrived and a truce was called. Mary agreed to get luncheon provided twenty-five cents was paid in addition to the amount already due, the stipulation in no wise to affect the merits of the dispute. After luncheon the debate over the eighty-three cents was resumed. Mrs. Waldo finally ordered her cook out of the house, and Mary refused to go without her $5.

In her complaint Mary declares that Mrs. Waldo called for police aid. Policeman George Cunningham came to the home and arrested the cook. For the part that he played in the episode he is named, with Mrs. Waldo, as one of the defendants.

Mary claims that Mrs. Waldo refused to hear her explanation or protests of innocence. Acting on Mrs. Waldo's direction the cook was "forcibly taken into custody and placed in a vehicle commonly used for transportation of vagrants and criminals, and therein transported in shame, disgrace and humiliation to the East Sixty-seventh street station."

Mrs. Waldo came to the station house to prefer a charge of disorderly conduct, and was told by Lieutenant Breen that she'd have to appear in Night Court.

"Oh, I couldn't possibly think of such a thing I have an engagement for the evening. You'll have to put her trial off until tomorrow morning."

"I'll be heard this night in court, I will," Mary interrupted.

"The morning will do perfectly well. She's my cook," Mrs. Waldo added.

"Well, cooks have their rights, madame," the lieutenant said. "It will have to be the Night Court."

Mrs. Waldo, finding that she would have to cut her society engagement to appear against Mary, withdrew the charge. The wage dispute was compromised by Mary accepting $4.42, the original $4.17 offered by Mrs. Waldo plus the 25 cents for serving luncheon.

Mrs. Waldo owns a beautiful residence valued at $1,000,000 at the corner of Seventy-second street and Madison avenue. Because she has not occupied the mansion, but has lived with her sister at her present residence, the corner home came to be known as "The House of Mystery."

Bernard H. Levy, who is Mrs. Madden's attorney, employed a process server for one month in trying to catch Mrs. Waldo.
