A Broken Wedding Ring

By Bertha M. Clay

Chapter VI.
Even when Leah Ray was not under the spell of her father's teaching she had the same shrinking, the same feeling of horror that a sensitive child has of the darkness.
Her father and his friends spoke of history; they talked of the rights of the people; they approved of secret societies they saw nothing wrong in Fenianism, in Nihilism, or any other "ism" which displaced authority and gave power into the hands of the mob. Martin Ray had spoken of his plan to his confederates. They all agreed with him.
It was a novelty to have a beautiful young girl to lecture for them, one on whose lips the very honey of eloquence lingered. She was bigotten into her father's study where several of his most intimate friends assembled. It was a trying ordeal for so young a girl, one less sensible would have been flattered into compliance with their wishes.
Leah shuddered with dread. They were grim-looking men, with distorted faces; in many instances with them "history" meant murder and the "right of the people" as-sination. She could not understand half that passed. Her father's friends flattered her, and told her that she would be greater and wider influence than a queen, and that she would live in the hearts and memories of the people forever.
But she was frightened. She had heard strange doctrines and strange words.

More than one man cried "Hush!" when he saw the girl's pale face, but Martin Ray said that no one need fear his daughter—she was one of them, and would be staunch until death. So they spoke freely before her, and she, pale, proud, and reserved, wondered that they did not see the difference between what she was and what they wanted.
There was no nobility in their aims, no loftiness of purpose. The girl's heart grew sick and faint as she listened, but her pale proud face gave no indication of her thoughts.
"I may soon die," said Martin Ray, as he laid his hand upon his daughter's beautiful head, "and I have spent my life for the people; but my spirit will live in this girl who has received my doctrine from my own lips, and who will add the splendor of her own genius to my experience. I may live however, to see my daughter the people's idol—the people's queen."

They asked Leah to give them a specimen of her power. She turned to her father, with an appealing look which he understood. It would have been easier for her to die than to speak before those stern, cold men.

"Not yet," said Martin Ray, looking proudly at his daughter.
"Considering the magnitude of the interests that will be committed to her charge, it is only right that you should hear her before he makes her first appearance in public.
But she has much to learn before then. She is not ready yet."

Leah Ray had plenty of spirit—she inherited it from the Hattos; but with all her courage, she dared not tell her father what was in her heart. She had been indifferent at first as to what she had to do; now she hated and loathed it.

When, after midnight, her father gave her permission to leave the conclave, she went to Hettie to seek comfort and consolation.

"I can never attempt it, my darling!" she sobbed. "O, Hettie! a what must I do? I hate it all so.
What shall I do? My father will be so angry when I tell him."

Her sister looked at her in helpless compassion.

"It seems almost a pity that you are so beautiful and so gifted, Leah," said Hettie.

Leah stood by the window; her face raised to the sky where the golden stars were shining.

"Do you remember Hettie," she said, "how the three Hebrews prayed in the fiery furnace. I am in a furnace of fire now. I stand between my own hatred of what my father wants me to do and my father's anger if I do not do it. Who will deliver me from it? Who will take pity on me and so help me? I have no friend. O, Hettie, Hettie! I feel I must pray to Heaven to save me from this furnace of fire!"

"My darling Leah, do not cry," returned Hettie. "If you tell our father that you are not like the plans that he has laid down for you, he will not force you to follow them."

But Leah had had a revelation of her father's character that evening which had opened her eyes.
She knew that he would not spare her—that he would force her to comply with his wishes; and, if she refused, she had a dim idea that he would make her suffer.

"I wish mamma had lived, Hettie," she said; "she would have taken care of us. She would never have allowed father to force me to do anything against my will. We should have been like other girls then, which we are not now."

"Still Leah, we are the daughters of a patriot," remarked loyal Hettie; and Leah turned away with a hopeless sickness at her heart.

No sleep came to her that night.
She hated the men whom she had seen, and who persisted in flattering and praising her. She detested their opinions and political feelings; she loathed the idea of having to meet them again and again. If some one would but rescue her!

If something would only happen to save her from the terrible future her nervousness disappeared.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff And Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandergine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandergine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandergine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowl-ton's Dandergine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing af-liction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, put out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Par-mint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parment is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears should give this recipe a trial.

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound Restored
Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.
