FLOUR, GRAIN, &c.

FLOUR -The market has presented no important new features during the week. Millers in the West continue to keep up the old cry that has been reiterated from week to week in these columns regarding the low prices of flour on this market and the high prices of notron this market and the high prices they are compelled to pay for their mills. Letters have been received from several millers during the past week by receivers here, instructing them to withdraw their consignments from the market. Others have advanced their limits 10c to 15c per bb! although in some instances in which advances have been made the right of consignors vances have been made the right of consignors to dictate terms of sale is questioned, and we are informed that sales have transpired within the past few days in opposition to such instructions. Be this as it may, there can be no doubt that the price of flour is against the interests of millers in many instances. The great obstacle in the way of comolying with the above requests of millers is that there is too much flour held here on commission and up m which advances have been made, and the moment one receiver stands out for higher prices another is:

PROVISIONS.

Hog Packing -From the Cincinnati Price Current: The week's packing at thirty-eight western points has been 425,000 hogs, not varying much from the aggregate of the preceding week and only 25,000 in excess of the corres ponding period last year. These places have packed a total of 2,635,000 hogs since Nov. 1st, compared with 2 215,000 a year ago, making an increase of 420,000. Approximations for other packing in the west indicate a total for all points this season of 2 885,000 hogs, against 2,475,000 last year and 3,100,000 two years ago.
Prices of hogs declined a little during the week
