

---

---

Rutherford's Flat

---

---

Judy, and my my folly. Can the body to the

was, she yet
to help Darnell scious form of
y slope, where y down. As escaped his lips
d for an instant.
ves!" passion-
"Run for your ell, and bring

an needed no
and flew back Judy cried and
t hysterically,
stant relaxed
re Halford to ne, like the art-
came to his

---

---

Romance of Rutherford's Flat

---

---

senses, and seeing Judy bending over him with tears rolling down her cheeks, and finding a great comfort in feeling his hand between her two soft, warm ones, discreetly closed his eyes again, and even allowed his forehead to be bathed and kissed without making any sign, but revived so quickly thereafter that poor Judy's maidenly modesty received a shock lest she was discovered, and she blushed crimson. But her secret was now in Halford's possession, and his own fate was sealed.

Rutherford came with Darnell, and Halford was removed to the house. Darnell watched for an opportunity, and beckoning Judy aside, said to her: "Judy, I've done a great wrong this day and I'm going to ask Halford's and