

Agnes C. Laut

In "Give America the Whole Truth," startles us with revelation after revelation of Germany's dirty work in the United States and Mexico—to breed strife, make America her vassal, gain a friend at the peace conference, inspire and muzzle the public press, interfere with the manufacture of munitions, and in other ways make America her dupe and fool. Miss Laut writes out of inside knowledge. She amazes us with her access to hidden things. "Give the facts to the public," she concludes, "the American voter will do the rest."

Miss Laut is a Canadian living in New York. Her genius, her vivid, virile style, her intimate acquaintance with those in high places, her mental breadth—these and other qualifications make publishers everywhere keen for her work. It is a veritable triumph for MACLEAN'S to have secured the series of war articles which she is now contributing to this magazine.

Arthur Stringer

Begins in the June number a humorous, whimsical and wholesome romance, "The Anatomy of Love." Never has this versatile Canadian excelled this new story of his. MACLEAN'S is fortunate in securing the first rights to this superlatively good story for Canadians.

Have regard also for these other distinguished Canadian writers whose work appears in the June MACLEAN'S.

Arthur E. McFarlane

contributes a mystifying detective story, "Behind the Bolted Door?"—the best detective story since Sherlock Holmes.

Robt. W. Service

provides two poems written at the front — "The Odyssey of 'Erbert 'Iggins" and "The Convalescent."

Alan Sullivan

supplies a timely sketch, "The Romance of Cobalt"—a sketch of the camp, past, present and future.

MACLEAN'S

MAGAZINE is getting the best Canadian writers to put their best work into articles and stories of particular Canadian interest. This is a deliberate policy on the part of MACLEAN'S publishers. Other Canadian writers of note whose work appears in MacLean's are:

Stephen Leacock Nellie McClung Arnot Craick
L. M. Montgomery H. F. Gadsby Robert E. Pinkerton

Not the least appreciated feature of MACLEAN'S is its popular Review of Reviews Department, which condenses for busy readers the cream of the world's best periodical literature.

MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE maintains a clean and wholesome tone. Its advertising pages are censored to exclude all objectionable advertising. MACLEAN'S can be taken into your home without any hesitancy, to be read by any member of your family.
