DEATH OF MRS. REBECCA J. GRANT.

At 3 p. m. in the afternoon of June 14th, a group of relatives and friends gathered at 395 Summer Ave., Reading, Mass., to pay the last tribute of respect to a loved mother and friend. The calm, beautiful face gave token, even in death, of the gentle spirit that once dwelt in the "tenement of clay", all that remained of Rebecca Jane, oldest daughter of the late William McKim, Esq., and widow of the late Rev. Robert Grant, Mrs. Grant was born in Great Village, then Londonderry, Feb. 24th, 1830.

The end of Mrs. Grant's "long day" came at the midnight hour of June 12th after a long and painful illness born with a courage and fortitude worthy of the "victor's crown". Long years of invalidism but endeared the mother to those near and dear to her. Of a modest, refined, and retiring nature, her life was lived in the quiet of home, and as a mother her loving ministry is worthy of emulation. Notwithstanding advanced years, her mind was clear and her memory strong until almost the last; and, while mindful of things spiritual, yet the days of long ago came trooping back within a short time of life's closing she repeated from Thomas Moore's poem—

"When I remember all the friends, so link'd together,
I've seen around me fall like leaves in wintry weather,
I feel like one who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed!
Thus, in the stilly night, ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Sad memory brings the light of other days around me."

Altho the closing chapter of life came to her far from the old home, yet the old friends, the old-time scenes were with her, in mind's eye until the last.

In the immediate family are left the two daughters, Isabella J. of Reading, Mass., Mary Ellen (Mrs. James Anderson) of Andover, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. Susan B. Copp of Great Village, N. S. This sister, now eighty years of age, is the last of a family of eight.

Her pastor Rev. Augustine Newton, of the Reading Congregational church officiated at the funeral service, speaking comfortingly of the life beyond, and of worth of her whom he had known thru his pastoral duties. At the close of the services the remains were taken to Londonderry, N. S. for burial, Mrs. Anderson accompanying the remains.

Leaving Boston at 7.30 p. m., thru the night the and the dawn of another day, the train sped on with its freight of living and dead, until, nearing the midnight hour of the 15th, we arrived at the home station Londonderry. The first familiar face seen was that of the kindly Charles Blair Spencer, the village undertaker, who came with kindly aid to render acceptable service. Close at hand stood the good neighbor, Albion S. Kent, the faithful mail carrier. Then the two cousins, Thomas Maxwell and Viola Copp, who came to convey me to the home of aunt, Mrs. S. B. Copp, at Great Village four miles away. To speak of Great Village is to recall those familiar lines from "The meeting of the Waters."

"For there is not in this wide world a vale half so sweet,
As the vale on whose bosom the bright waters meet."
It was sad indeed to pass the home that gave me birth.
To see the home of childhood
Draped in its barb of gray,
The windows closed and shuttered,
The dear ones all away;
And, tho the heart was yearning,
And the eyes were strained to see,
No loved one stood to greet me with:
"A welcome home to thee!"

Soon we were at the home of Mrs. Copp, who awaited our coming, and into her home were brought the remains of the loved sister.
At 4 p. m. on the following day, the sabbath, many relatives and friends gathered for the funeral services, which were conducted by Rev. Mr. Francis. At the close of the service the remains were taken to Glenholme for burial, the bell of the near-by Presbyterian church tolling as the funeral procession passed. The dear mother now rests by the side of her two sons, James and "Willie" and the husband of her youth, "till the dawn breaks, and shadows flee away."
The pall bearers were L. C. Layton, Robert Chisholm, Angus Johnston and Capt. A. Mahon.

Mrs. Hannah Stoddard.

On Saturday evening June 1st, there passed to her eternal home, the oldest resident of Clam Harbor, N. S., in the person of Mrs. Hannah Stoddard at the age of 89 years. Mrs. Stoddard was the relict of the late Adam Stoddard, who predeceased her thirty-two years. She had been in failing health for some time, but was confined to her bed for only three weeks previous to her death. Mrs. Stoddard was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, a devoted and earnest christian and may be truly said to have adorned her profession. The intelligence of her decease will bring a feeling of sadness to many hearts, as she was esteemed by all who knew her.

Besides a large circle of friends she leaves three sons, three daughters forty-one grand-children and fifteen great-grandchildren; also an aged brother, Richard Palmer, residing at Springhill, N. S. The sons are Arthur with whom she made her home; and John and Reuben of Portland, Me. The daughters are Mrs. Fred Stoddard of Jeddore, Mrs. Burton Hawkins, Halifax and Mrs. Jobina Siteman Ship Harbor, two sons James and Edgar predeceased her, the former only last August.

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor Rev. J. McAskill. The remains were laid to rest in the little cemetery at Clam Harbor.

A UNION OF CHURCHES.

On May 30th, the Presbytery of Truro met with the congregation of Economy, and after a afternoon's full discussion ratified a basis for "federal union" between the Presbyterian and Congregational churches in that village. Revs. H. J. Fraser, and G. A. Grant were appointed to appear before the Congregational Union at their meeting in June at Kingsport. On the 20th, and 21st inst. these representatives visited Kingsport and were most kindly received and entertained. During the morning of the 21st, the basis was brought before a special committee of the Union, with whom Rev. W. T. Gunn, D. D., was associated, and with certain suggestions unanimously approved. The proposed changes are all moderate and reasonable, and are recommended to the favorable consideration of the Truro Presbytery at its meeting early in July. It is hoped that with this final ratification a union will be effected that will prepare the way not only for a permanent understanding and fellowship, but to a similar union at Five Islands, thus setting free one man at Economy, and two men at Five Islands, where there are three churches, for work elsewhere—Presbyterian Witness.

MRS. CROSSEN'S RECEPTION.

On Thursday after noon Mrs. F. J. Crossen, received formally for the first time since her recent marriage. The house at 3 Park Street which Mr. and Mrs. Crossen have taken temporarily was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, the dining room gorgeous in brilliant red and white blossoms, the other rooms fragrant with lilacs.
Mrs. I. C. Mackie, who assisted the hostess to receive wore a becoming gown of biscuit colored silk crepe with silver trimmings. Mrs. Crossen, in an imported gown of champagne colored crepe-de-chene of swiss embroidery was most charming. Mrs. H. H. Archibald of Glace Bay, aunt of Mrs. Crossen, in a navy blue satin gown and smart black hat, poured tea, while Mrs. W. G. McDonald in old rose silk with picture hat presided at the coffee urn. The young ladies who served, Miss Sadie McLeod, Miss Ilma Richardson, Miss Pearl Read, Miss Lena Gates, Miss Gladys Stephens and Miss Elizabeth Stalker were daintily gowned in sheer summer frocks. Helen, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney LeLacheur, answered the door. She was very pretty in a white frock of fine net, and welcomed the guests in a childishly graceful manner. The rooms were crowded with visitors all the afternoon—Sydney Record, June 28.

The Bowels Must Act Healthily.

In most ailments the first care of the medical man is to see that the bowels are open and fully performing their functions. Parmelee's Vegetables Pills are so compounded that certain ingredients in them act on the bowels solely and they are the very best medicine available to produce healthy action of the bowels. Indeed, there is no other specific so serviceable in keeping the digestive organs in healthful action.
