HOW IS THIS ?

Last week the Reporter announced that eight or ten high school graduates possessed of Jr. Leaving certificates and better, had presented themselves for admission to the Athens Model School and been rejected on the ground that they were not old enough to train

Now we are informed that these Now we are informed that these same pupils have applied for admission to another model school and been ac-cepted. Will some qualified education-ist kindly explain this ?

We are not disposed to adversely criticise the action of a school in disregarding departmental regulations to the extent of admitting such pupils. With many country schools, perforce, in charge of teachers possessing neither the necessary education nor any special training, it is obviously in the public interest that these bright students, interest that these bright students, though not quite 18 years of age, should be allowed to train at the Mr E. J. Suffel and the sweet strains

DEATH OF SUSAN CHEESEMAN

home of her sister, Mrs Kilborn, on Friday evening last, aged nearly 73

Mrs Cheeseman was a daughter of the late Joel Parish of Athens, and here the greater part of her long life has been spent. Her gentle ways and kindly disposition gained for her many friends in her journey through life, and many sincere regrets were expressed at her illness and death. She had been quite frail for several years, but at the last was seriously ill for only a few days.

The funeral took place to the Methodist church on Sunday morning where an impressive discourse was delivered to a large congregation by the Rev S. J. Hughes. Many beautiful floral tokens adorned the casket, which was borne by Messrs Torrence Brown, John Carss, John Wiltse, S. Boddy, and Geo. Stevens.

Interment was made in the Athens

WHY SELL ON THE CURB?

Harvey Edwards, salesman for Edwards cheese factory during the seasons of 1904-05, has written a letter to the editor of the Ottawa Journal stating that he was the salesman referred to in a recent issue of that paper as having been offered pocket money. He says he has always opposed curb selling, but that during the three years he was a member of the Ottawa cheese board, he found that more money could be secured on the curb, and as he was sent there to do the best he could, he sometimes had to sell on the curb in order to get returns paid by other factories.

During the season of 1905, one of the buyers arranged with him so that he should sell his cheese at a certain price on the board in order that he might get the other factories to sell, and in return the buyer promised to compensate him at a later date, which he did on several occasions. "On one occasion during the season of 1905," writes Mr Edwards, "I sold him my cheese on the curb at board prices, and the following week he compensated me to the extent of over $14 in cash, out of his own pocket. At the opening of the season of 1906, this same buyer gave me $5 in cash out of his own pocket. I turned this pocket money into the treasurer of our factory and told some of my patrons what had occurred. I am prepared to prove by the treasurer that this pocket money paid me by one of the buyers was turned over to him, and if necessary, I am paepared to give the name of the buyer"

HOWARD-FRYE

A house is built of rocks and stones, And sills and posts and piers, But a home is built of loving deeds That stand a thousand years.

A house, though but a humble cot, Within its walls may hold A home of priceless treasure, Rich in Love's eternal gold.

The men of earth build houses, halls, And chambers, roofs and domes, But the women of the world, God knows,

A bright new home was founded on Wednesday evening, Sept. 4th, when Miss Jennie E. Frye and Mr Charles B. Howard of Charleston were married at the residence of the bride's father, Soperton, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The impressive marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev A. B. Johnston models. What we do protest against is the fast and loose system that forces graduates of the A. H. S. to go outside the county to obtain their model training.

Mr R. J. Sune and the sweet strains of the wedding march, "Suhnsucht." played by Miss Zelda Frye. The bridal party entered the parlor through a passage way formed of white ribbon, held by the sisters of the bride, and took their places in the bay window before a lovely bank of ferns and white asters and beneath a graceful arch of

Mr Howard was supported by Mr Charles E. Frye, both, of course, tin conventional black. The bride looked very sweet and girlish in a graceful gown of white silk, trimmed with cluny lace collar, while a long bridal veil and bouquet of white roses and maiden hair ferns completed her pleasing cos-tume. Miss Addie Gilbert made a charming bridesmaid in an elegant costume of pink crepe de chene and carrying a bouquet of white asters. Miss Beryl Davis, as flower girl, in a pretty dress of white silk and carrying a wand of flowers and ribbon, added another touch of beauty to the truly picturesque scene. The customary congratulations over, the guests were conducted to the dining room, which presented a veritable scene from Fairyland, with its richly appoint ed tables, its festoons of pink and ribbons, and everywhere a profusion of beautiful flowers and ferns.

The guests were waited upon by six fair maidens in white dresses and waitresses aprons and caps.

Mrs Howard, as we must now cal her, was deservedly popular among young and old and will be greatly missed in the neighborhood of her old home, as she was ever ready to lend her aid in the interest of social life and in the advancement of the church, S. S. and League. A number of beautiful and valuable gifts testified to

A hearty send off was given the young couple as they left for a trip to Toronto and Hamilton, and a warm welcome awaits them at their future home, near Charleston, where, with every prospect of happiness, they will
