Heart Disease. Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart trouble, at least among the Americans, is certainly increasing, and while the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, or poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable; but not on case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is being both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use of food made of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of stomach.

Full sized packages of these tablets are sold by druggists, and the little book on Stomach Troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart, Co., Marshall, Mich.

BUTCHERING DEER IN THE WATER.

This Journal stood alone for years in its determination to keep the shooting of deer in the water, and when the Legislature passed a law prohibiting the practice, we never imagined it possible that it would be revoked. Such, however, was the case, and though in answer to the circulars sent out by the Department, the majority of the replies were opposed to the privilege being again granted, the Minister saw fit to disregard the protest and again allow the pot-hunters their way.

There is no more sport in killing deer in the water than knifing lambs in the slaughter house. The writer of this has hunted deer for over twenty years, and during the time that it was legal to kill deer in the water he has seen many a one clubbed to death by men who excused their action by saying there was no use wasting ammunition. The man who "still" hunts or shoots his deer ahead of the dogs in the woods, fairly earns his venison. But the game has no fair chance when it can be driven to the water and killed there. Lots of men now go hunting who are actually afraid to go five hundred yards into the woods for fear of losing themselves; hunters of this stamp wouldn't kill a deer in ten seasons, but when these same men are located in boats on a lake and expect to drive deer in the water, they guard their butchery then at the water's edge. If an amendment to the Game Protection Act prohibiting the killing of deer in the water is submitted to the legislature this season, it should be passed without a dissenting voice. No true sportsman will oppose it.

and hoarseness with their attendant dangers may be speedily averted and remedied by the use of Nerviline. Excellent to gargle with—ten times better than a mustard plaster and more convenient for the outsider, and speedily allays inflammation. Nerviline cures because it is five times stronger than other remedies—penetrates the tissues instantly, soothes the pain, and cures simply because that's what it is made for. Druggists sell it.

LITERARY NOTES. McCURE'S MAGAZINE FOR MARCH. The March issue of McCure's Magazine is one of notable value, a value at once timely and permanent. The leading feature is a character study of Edward VII., written by the man in America most competent for the task, George W. Smalley, the correspondent of the London Times. Accompanying the article are pictures which form a series of portraits of the new sovereign from earliest youth to the present. Following this is a collection of the King, there is a collection of pictures of Queen Victoria. There are thirty in number, reproductions of photographs and paintings, and they are a complete pictorial souvenir of the monarch. A descriptive text accompanies them.
