"Early Victorian" is the phrase the fashionable modiste uses to describe the melange that makes up present modes. That phrase as well as another fits the situation, but does not give credit to the Japanese motifs, which

In this case the third piece is apt to be a chic little wrap of the same silk and more often than not it is decorated with embroideries which consist of a good deal of fancy braiding, combined with a few telling stitches.

king Edward, by promoting Sir Arthur Knyvet Wilson to the rank of admiral of the fleet, which is the naval equivalent of the military office of field marshal, on the eve of the day under which he was slated to retire, on the score of age, has succeeded in retaining him on the active list. For admirals of the fleet, like field marshals, possess the privilege of remaining on the active list without regard to age limit until their death. It is generally understood that Sir Arthur, the most capable commander of the British navy, is slated to succeed Admiral Sir John Fisher as first sea lord of the Admiralty.

Sir Arthur is a Crimean veteran, having served in that war, off Sevastopol, as a 12-year-old midshipman. And four years later he took part in the storming of the Taku torts in China.

Won Victoria Cross

Won Victoria Cross

But it was at the battle of El Teb, on the Red Sea coast, during the Soudan campaign, that he won his Victoria Cross by a feat of bravery as gallant as any that figure on England's roll of honor—namely, the list of its Victoria Cross heroes. For, when, at a critical moment, a corner of the square had given way under the fierce onslaught of the dervishes, Capt. Wilson, as he was then, sprang into the gap, and, single handed, held the foe in check until some men of the York and Lancaster regiments rushed to his assistance. While laying about him with his sword the blade snapped almost at the hilt, and thereupon Wilson let out with his fists, right and left, bowling the enemy over like ninepins, and, marvelous to relate, escaping with a few relatively trifling wounds. Needless to say that his fellow officers presented him with a superb sword of honor to replace that which he had broken on the Fuzzies, while Queen Victoria Cross.

Sir Arthur Wilson may be said to come from a fighting stock. For he is heir to the baronetcy which his uncle, Gen. Sir Archdale Wilson, won during the great Indian mutiny by the capture of Delhi, the name of which famous Indian city is borne in conjunction with the beronetcy. The present holder of the baronetcy is Sir Roland Knyvet Wilson, who is professor of Indian law and history at the University of Cambridge. He has no children, and the new admiral of the fleet is his younger brother. Another brother was killed in one of the most sensational of the many tragedies that figure in the annals of the Alpine Club, during an ascent of the Riffelhorn, in Switzerland, some
